STUDY GERMANY'S ARMS VIOLATION

ALLIED REPORT CHARGES PACT NOT OBSERVED

Council Of Ambassadors Convinced Steps Must Be Taken To Oblige Berlin To Live Up To The Treaty Of Versailles.

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 3.—The diplomatic negotiations arising from the report of the allied military mission of control on Germany's violation of the disarmament clauses in the Versailles treaty, which bring sharply to the front the question of the future security of France and Belgium, entered an active phase today.

It came with the presentation to the council of ambassadors of the allied war committee's report on the state of Germany's armaments and armed forces.

Marshal Foch who presented the report, had a long talk with Premier Herriot before the ambassadors met and the Marquis of Crewe, the British ambassador, called on the French premier just after the ambassadors adjourned. These visits have added importance to the council meeting which was one of the briefest the ambassadors ever held.

Ask Suggestions.

After hearing Marshal Foch, the council asked that the allied war committee "make suggestions which it believes will be capable of assuring the disarmament of Germany according to the treaty of Versailles. This is understood in diplomatic circles as showing that the ambassadors already were convinced that something must be done to oblige Germany to keep her engagements.

The talks Marshal Foch and Lord Crewe had with the premier were partly with reference to the disposition to be made of the Foch report and partly to clear the question of an interview between M. Herriot and Austen Chamberlain, the British secretary for foreign affairs, when Mr. Chamberlain passes through France shortly on his way to or from the League of Nations council meeting at Geneva.

May Call Conference.

It is believed in diplomatic circles that after scrutinizing the report the ambassadors will refer the subject to their governments with the idea of calling an allied conference to deal finally with the matter.

Marshal Foch and his committee in their written opinion of the [illegible] mission's report say it shows that the Germans are persistent in their determination to maintain a complete staff of officers for an army such as Germany possessed prior to the world war.

Not only is Germany educating officers to this end, the committee believes, but she is training enough men to supply a strong fighting

Quake Deaths In Canada Now Total Seven

(Associated Press.)

OTTAWA, Ont., March 3.—Eastern Canada today was endeavoring to ascertain the extent of the damage caused by the earthquakes of Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Some points were still isolated, telegraph wires being put out of commission by the tremors. The latest quake, recorded at 10 a. m. Monday, was slight and caused little damage.

Reports from all sections of the province of Quebec show that in addition to the heavy property loss and numerous injuries to residents, seven deaths were recorded, a majority being caused by shock.

The property loss was exceptionally heavy in the valley of the Ottawa river and the St. Lawrence and the Saguenay basins.

The town of Tadousac, twenty-five miles from Murray bay, in the quake region, has not been heard from since the first shock rocked the district. Telegraph and telephone communication to the settlement was crippled.

SIMMONS MAY SEEK HEARING

Attorneys For Boyd County Man Will Try Again to Have Death Sentence Changed to Life Imprisonment In Penitentiary.

CLAIM EVIDENCE JURY PREJUDICED

Case Has Dragged On For Nearly Three Years. Though Pardon Board and State Courts Have Refused Many Times to Interfere.

Another hearing before the state pardon board has been informally requested by Attorney E. E. Holmes of Lincoln on behalf of Walter R. Simmons, with a view to having the latter's death sentence for the murder of Frank Pahl in Boyd county nearly three years ago commuted to life imprisonment.

Some additional affidavits from people in northern Nebraska alleging that members of the jury which tried and convicted Simmons had previously expressed their opinion that he was guilty, were recently filed with Secretary of State Pool, secretary of the pardon board. Tuesday morning, Attorney Holmes called on Attorney General Spillman, another board member, and said he would like an opportunity to present the data contained in these affidavits.

Simmons' application to the supreme court of the United States for a writ of certiorari which would permit him to carry his case up from the supreme court of Nebraska, is still pending at Washington, where it was filed last June. It was supposed to have been taken under advisement by the Washington tribunal several months ago, but no ruling has been made.

While the case is hung up on the slender chance that the federal supreme court may entertain an appeal, monthly reprieves continue to be issued to Simmons by the governor giving him a new lease of life each time.

Death Penalty Not Abolished.

The legislature of Nebraska has indefinitely postponed a bill providing for the abolition of capital punishment, which had been hoped for by Simmons and his counsel. Nebraska courts have repeatedly refused to interfere in the case, and the state pardon board a year ago, after two hearings, declined to change the penalty to life imprisonment.

Pahl was slain on a lonely road in Boyd county, near Spencer, about midnight of May 18, 1922. His automobile was taken and later seen in possession of Simmons. When the latter abandoned the machine, it was found to have bloodstains inside, and a bloody hat was also discovered.

Simmons was later arrested, and on October 15, 1922, the jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree. He was sentenced on October 19, 1922, to be electrocuted, the date being fixed at February 2, 1923.

Delayed by Continuance.

However, on January 12, 1923, an appeal was filed in his behalf in the state supreme court, which made an order suspending the sentence. The case was set for hearing on June 4 of that year, but continued by agreement until October [illegible]. Other continuances were

GOVERNMENT OF TURKEY RESIGNS

Cabinet Steps Down, According To Advices From Constantinople.

Action Believed Result Of Rebellion Outbreak In Kurdistan.

(Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 3.—The Turkish government has resigned.

The Turkish cabinet, formed last November, with Fethi Bey as premier, was recently confronted with a serious situation due to the outbreak of a rebellion in Kurdistan. The rebels, under Sheik Said, not only demanded autonomy for their country, but announced their determination to restore the caliphate, abolished by Angora government.

To this end they are reported to have proclaimed Prince Selim, son of the former Sultan Abdul Hamid, as king of Kurdistan, and to have issued an appeal to the population saying:

"Your caliphate awaits you. No Mohammedanism is possible without caliphate. The present government is opposed to religion."

The nationalists took military measures to quell the insurrection and some fighting has been reported.

Fethi's regime has also been in dispute with Greece over the expulsion from Constantinople of the Greek patriarch, Most Rev. Constantinos. The Turks held the patriarch amenable to that part of the Lausanne treaty providing for the exchange of minority populations. Greece appealed to the League of Nations and the case is scheduled to come before the league council at its meeting in Geneva next week.

OPEN CONTEST ON BROOKHART

Officials Of Republican Central Committee Of Iowa Begin Action In Senate Against Republican Solon.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A contest of the election of Senator Smith Brookhart, republican, Iowa, was filed with the senate today by officials of the republican central committee of Iowa.

At the same time a copy of the papers were personally served on the senator by D. E. Burnquist of Fort Dodge, Ia., chairman, and H. E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids, counsel for the committee.

Senator Brookhart had announced earlier that when the senate adjourned he would go to Iowa to make a contest against "that gang," with "no quarter" asked.

Senator Brookhart, who already has been read out of the party councils by the republican senate organization, previously had declined to accept service unless by a United States marshal. Just as he was leaving his office for the senate chamber today, however, Burnquist and Spangler handed him the formal notice of the contest.

Half an hour before Senator Brookhart had announced he would take his fight against the state committee to the people of Iowa, campaigning in every county.

He said later in reply to the charge that he had been elected through fraud and deceit by representing himself to be a republican, that the people of Iowa had passed upon his republicanism at the polls.

The charges brought against Brookhart are those outlined in a formal resolution adopted by the state committee at Des Moines last January.

CONGRESS PLANS NIGHT SESSIONS

Prepare For Last Minute Rush To Clear Calendar Of All Bills.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The somewhat leisurely fashion in which congress has neared the adjournment hour at noon tomorrow, promised to give way today to sessions extending well into the night for both houses in the last minute rush to clear the calendar of all bills having any chance of enactment.

With all of the regular appropriation bills safely cleared of the legislative jam, the senate and house set what was declared to be almost a precedent for both by adjourning without night sessions yesterday, with only hours remaining before the sine die adjournment.

The senate called it a day shortly after 7 o'clock after Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, had called up the house branch bank bill as well as the unfinished business. Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, declaring "the senator believes this bill can be disposed of," finally obtained an adjournment until 11 o'clock today.

House Has Busy Day.

The house fixed its convening hour today at 10 o'clock, when it adjourned yesterday at 6:30 p. m., after completing a round day's work in which a dozen measures were passed under suspension of the rules in addition to acceptance of senate amendments to the rivers and harbors bill and [illegible] of the conference report on the interior department supply measure.

MATTOX IN RACE FOR MAYORALTY

Attorney to Contest With Zehrung For Head Of City Government.

John Wright to Again Be a Candidate For the Commission.

Filing by John L. Mattox as a candidate for mayor, and the announcement by Commissioner John Wright that he would make his filing Saturday, stimulated interest in city hall circles Tuesday in the city campaign.

Word was also received at the city hall today that petitions had been prepared for C. W. Bryan as a candidate for mayor. This, however, was denied by Ed Schroeder, who said that so far as he knew petitions for the former governor had not been prepared. He added however, that efforts were being made to induce Bryan to enter the race and he believed he would do it.

In filing for mayor, Attorney Mattox issued a statement in which he says his filing is the result of an insisted demand for a housecleaning at the city hall. Lack of co-operation among the present commissioners, he says, is responsible for the demand.

Declaring that if elected he will do all within his power to see that the city's affairs are managed on the same basis as business institution, Mattox says his further policy will be to give careful consideration to future development, that the laws are enforced and that the city is kept clean.

If there is a change in the city administration, Mattox states, "there should be a clean sweep."

The filing of the Mattox petition came simultaneously with the announcement that the pre-election speaking campaign would open tonight. Literature incidental to the fight has also made its appearance, Commissioner Cowgill having started distributing hand bills through his employes at the muny gas and coal station.

Elimination of the name of one man mentioned as a candidate for commissioner was another development of the forenoon. Harry Fulmer, candidate in the fall election for commissioner of public lands and buildings, said today that he is not a candidate for the city commission. "Certainly some one has made a mistake," he said and confused my running last fall with being a candidate in the spring city election. I have no intention of getting into the city race.

Rain Is Forecast During Afternoon Inauguration Day

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Probable rain in the afternoon of the inauguration day is predicted for Washington by the weather bureau.

FORMALITY IS TO BE MARKED BY SIMPLICITY

Prepare To Install New Administration Wednesday In Setting But Dimly Reflecting Splendor Of Similar Events Of Past.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—In a setting that reflected but dimly the showy splendor that has shone in inaugural history for a century and more, the American government brought to completion today its plan to install a new administration at noon tomorrow.

Everything considered, it was the quietest March 3 of an inauguration year that Washington has seen in many decades. The ceremonies tomorrow will be somewhat more extended than those of four years ago when President Harding ordered that the whole inauguration be attended by utter simplicity, but on that occasion the impending change of government stirred the capital to a high pitch of expectation and brought here a tremendous crowd of spectators.

Today the wide avenues of the capital were almost barren of pre-inaugural crowds and only a few scattered reviewing stands and a profusion of red, white and blue, which draped almost every building along the line of tomorrow's abbreviated parade [illegible] the near approach of another inauguration day.

At the white house, President Coolidge was a little busier than usual, receiving distinguished visitors and keeping pace with the fevered activities of the dying congress, but he went about "doing the day's work" according to the motto he long ago adopted as his watchword of public service, without apparent thought of the morrow.

Dawes Is Caller.

One of those who called on the president was Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, the soldier-statesman, who in another twenty-four hours will become the nation's second in command. Following his celebrated slipper pipe on a trip about the capitol to renew old acquaintances, the vice president-elect dropped in for an hour's chat with his chief, and regaled senators whom he met in the executive offices with quips about stiff parliamentary decorum he foresees for himself as presiding officer of the senate.

Delegations from a score or so of states, headed in most cases by a governor, either called to pay their respects or sent greetings to the president upon their arrival for tomorrow's ceremonies.

There was a short cabinet meeting, as is customary on Tuesdays and in all the crush of his duties Mr. Coolidge found time to witness the conclusion of a marathon race and award a prize to the winner.

As the pre-inaugural period entered its last twenty-four hours, a bright sun tempered hourly the crispness of a blustery March day, and the weather forecasters predicted that tomorrow would be warm enough for comfort in the outdoor stands, but overcast with perhaps some rain in the afternoon. If the ceremonies can be carried through on schedule, however, they should be over before the showers begin.

Early Completion Likely.

Under the plan of brevity and economy laid down by Mr. Coolidge himself, the entire official program should be concluded by mid-afternoon. It is the passing of the inaugural parade that usually drags out the ceremony until evening and this time there will be [illegible] in the [illegible] for the governors of states and their staffs and less than [illegible] soldiers, sailors and marines assembled from posts nearby.

About [illegible] people will be seated in the stands on the capitol plaza to see Mr. Coolidge take the oath of office on his grandmother's Bible and seal his obligation by pressing his lips to the first chapter of St. John, which describes the baptism of Jesus by John the Baptist.

Another 4,000 will have places in the reviewing stand at the white house but along Pennsylvania avenue there will be [illegible] room [illegible] who will gather there to cheer the state and national [illegible] and [illegible] pass along in the [illegible] steps of the great inaugural pageants of the past.

State Buys Carload Of Coal From Richardson County Mine

A carload of Nebraska coal from the newly developed mine in Richardson county, near Rulo, has been purchased by the state and will be used for heating the capitol. The price to be paid is $7 a ton, f. o. b. Lincoln. The coal will be shipped as soon as it can be taken from the mine and loaded o na car. There will be from 40 to 50 tons in the consignment.

After the coal is received here, which will be within a few days, it will have to be hauled from railroad tracks to the heating plant on Capitol square. This will cost 60 to 75 cents a ton additional, if the hauling is done by hired truck drivers and teamsters. If Governor McMullen should see fit, he could have some of the men and trucks from the public works material yards do the work.

The coal is to be of regular lump size, such as that in ordinary domestic use. Most of what is burned to heat the capitol is nut coal, which comes cheaper.

W. I. Lewis, owner of the Rulo mine, wrote to Governor McMullen on February 24 saying he would like to sell one carload of his output to the state. Desiring to aid a new Nebraska industry, the governor authorized his secretary, David Meeker, to negotiate the purchase. This was done over the long distance telephone on Monday.

The first carload Lewis sold, which went to Falls City, brought him $6.50 a ton on track at Rulo. The price of $7 to be paid by the state at Lincoln will not net him quite so much, but Lewis expects to get enough advertising from the shipment to make up the difference.

The Rulo man some time ago wrote to the governor asking aid from the state in buying some machinery to increase the productive capacity of his mine. He hopes to strike a 26-inch vein before long, which would entitle him to the state bounty of $3,000, or $4,000 for a thicker vein.

Two Suspects Held for Questioning By San Diego Police Released.

(Associated Press.)

SAN DIEGO, March 3.—Unable to find a clue connecting the murdered man found by the roadside north of this city Sunday night with the robbery of two Los Angeles women at a fashionable hotel here Sunday night police today admitted they were far from the solution of either crime. The slain man had been identified as Frank J. Harrington and is believed to have come here from Chicago.

Police yesterday took into custody Thomas A. Johnson and Hugh McGovern, at a palatial dwelling, which Johnson, who also came here from Chicago, recently purchased. The men were questioned for several hours and then released.

In the Johnson house, to which they had been directed by a Laundry mark found on the clothing of the murdered man, the police discovered traces of a struggle. Stains, evidently of blood, were found in the bathroom and in the attic the police found two suits of clothing stained with blood, while in the laundry room a shirt was found to be soaking in water, which was discolored, apparently with blood.

While the police were searching the house Johnson and McGovern entered and were immediately placed under arrest. They said that they had not been home since early Sunday morning and at that time, they told the police, Harrington was alive.

GOVERNMENT OF TURKEY RESIGNS

Cabinet Steps Down, According To Advices From Constantinople.

Action Believed Result Of Rebellion Outbreak In Kurdistan.

(Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 3. — The Turkish government has resigned.

The Turkish cabinet, formed last November, with Fethi Bey as premier, was recently confronted with a serious situation due to the outbreak of a rebellion in Kurdistan. The rebels, under Sheik Said, not only demanded autonomy for their country, but announced their determination to restore the caliphate, abolished by Angora government.

To this end they are reported to have proclaimed Prince Selim, son of the former Sultan Abdul Hamid, as king of Kurdistan, and to have issued an appeal to the population saying:

"Your caliphate awaits you. No Mohammedanism is possible without caliphate. The present government is opposed to religion."

The nationalists took military measures to quell the insurrection and some fighting has been reported.

Fethi's regime has also been in dispute with Greece over the expulsion from Constantinople of the Greek patriarch, Most Rev. Constantinos. The Turks held the patriarch amenable to that part of the Lausanne treaty providing for the exchange of minority populations. Greece appealed to the League of Nations and the case is scheduled to come before the league council at its meeting in Geneva next week.

OPEN CONTEST ON BROOKHART

Officials Of Republican Central Committee Of Iowa Begin Action In Senate Against Republican Solon.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3. — A contest of the election of Senator Smith Brookhart, republican, Iowa, was filed with the senate today by officials of the republican central committee of Iowa.

At the same time a copy of the papers were personally served on the senator by B. B. Burnquist of Fort Dodge, Ia., chairman, and H. E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids, counsel for the committee.

Senator Brookhart had announced earlier that when the senate adjourned he would go to Iowa to make a contest against "that gang," with "no quarter" asked.

Senator Brookhart, who already has been read out of the party councils by the republican senate organization, previously had declined to accept service unless by a United States marshal. Just as he was leaving his office for the senate chamber today, however, Burnquist and Spangler handed him the formal notice of the contest.

Half an hour before Senator Brookhart had announced he would take his fight against the state committee to the people of Iowa, campaigning en every county.

He said later in reply to the charge that he had been elected through fraud and deceit by representing himself to be a republican, that the people of Iowa had passed upon his republicanism at the polls.

The charges brought against Brookhart are those outlined in a formal resolution adopted by the state committee at Des Moines last January.

CONGRESS PLANS NIGHT SESSIONS

Prepare For Last Minute Rush To Clear Calendar Of All Bills.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The somewhat leisurely fashion in which congress has neared the adjournment hour at noon tomorrow, promised to give way today to sessions extending well into the night for both houses in the last minute rush to clear the calendar of all bills having any chance of enactment.

With all of the regular appropriation bills safely cleared of the legislative jam, the senate and house set what was declared to be almost a precedent for both by adjourning without night sessions yesterday, with only hours remaining before the sine die adjournment.

The senate called it a day shortly after 7 o'clock after Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, had called up the house branch banking bill as the unfinished business. Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, declaring "no senator believes this bill can be disposed of," finally obtained an adjournment until 11 o'clock today.

House Has Busy Day.

The house fixed its convening hour today at 10 o'clock, when it adjourned yesterday at 6:30 p. m., after completing a round day's work in which a dozen measures were passed under suspension of the rules in addition to acceptance of senate amendments to the rivers and harbors bill and adoption of the conference report on the interior department supply measure.

The only one of the important money bills still held up is the final deficiency measure.

Legislation in the senate to carry out the co-operative marketing recommendations of the president's agricultural conference now faces practically certain failure.

MATTOX IN RACE FOR MAYORALTY

Attorney to Contest With Zehrung For Head Of City Government.

John Wright to Again Be a Candidate For the Commission.

Filing by John L. Mattox as a candidate for mayor, and the announcement by Commissioner John Wright that he would make his filing Saturday, stimulated interest in city hall circles Tuesday in the city campaign.

Word was also received at the city hall today that petitions had been prepared for C. W. Bryan as a candidate for mayor. This, however, was denied by Ed Schroeder, who said that so far as he knew petitions for the former governor had not been prepared. He added however, that efforts were being made to induce Bryan to enter the race and he believed he would do it.

In filing for mayor, Attorney Mattox, issued a statement in which he says his filing is the result of an insisted demand for a housecleaning at the city hall. Lack of co-operation among the present commissioners, he says, is responsible for the demand.

Declaring that if elected he will do all within his power to see that the city's affairs are managed on the same basis as business institution. Mattox says his further policy will be to give careful consideration to future development, that the laws are enforced and that the city is kept clean.

If there is a change in the city administration, Mattox states, "there should be a clean sweep."

The filing of the Mattox petition came simultaneously with the announcement that the pre-election speaking campaign would open tonight. Literature incidental to the fight has also made its appearance, Commissioner Cowgill having started distributing hand bills through his employes at the muny gas and coal station.

Elimination of the name of one man mentioned as a candidate for commissioner was another development of the forenoon. Harry Follmer, candidate in the fall election for commissioner of public lands and buildings, said today that he is not a candidate for the city commission. "Certainly some one has made a mistake," he said and confused my running last fall with being a candidate in the spring city election. I have no intention of getting into the city race.

FORMALITY IS TO BE MARKED BY SIMPLICITY

Prepare To Install New Administration Wednesday In Setting But Dimly Reflecting Splendor Of Similar Events Of Past.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—In a setting that reflected but dimly the showy splendor that has shone in inaugural history for a century and more, the American government brought to completion today its plan to install a new administration at noon tomorrow.

Everything considered, it was the quietest March 3 of an inauguration year that Washington has seen in many decades. The ceremonies tomorrow will be somewhat more extended than those of four years ago when President Harding ordered that the whole inauguration be attended by utter simplicity, but on that occasion the impending change of government stirred the capital to a high pitch of expectation and brought here a tremendous crowd of spectators.

Today the wide avenues of the capital were almost barren of pre-inaugural crowds and only a few scattered reviewing stands and a profusion of red, white and blue, which draped almost every building along the line of tomorrow's abbreviated parade evinced the near approach of another inauguration day.

At the white house, President Coolidge was a little busier than usual, receiving distinguished visitors and keeping pace with the fevered activities of the dying congress, but he went about "doing the day's work" according to the motto he long ago adopted as his watchword of public service, without apparent thought of the morrow.

Dawes Is Caller.

One of those who called on the president was Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, the soldier-statesman, who in another twenty-four hours will become the nation's second in command. Following his celebrated dipper pipe on a trip about the capitol to renew old acquaintances, the vice president-elect dropped in for an hour's chat with his chief, and regaled senators whom he met in the executive offices with quips about staid parliamentary decorum he foresees for himself as presiding officer of the senate.

Delegations from a score or so of states, headed in most cases by a governor, either called to pay their respects or sent greetings to the president upon their arrival for tomorrow's ceremonies.

There was a short cabinet meeting, as is customary on Tuesdays and in all the crush of his duties Mr. Coolidge found time to witness the conclusion of a marathon race and award a prize to the winner.

As the pre-inaugural period entered its last twenty-four hours, a bright sun tempered hourly the crispness of a blustery March day, and the weather forecasters predicted that tomorrow would be warm enough for comfort in the outdoor stands, but overcast with perhaps some rain in the afternoon. If the ceremonies can be carried through on schedule, however, they should be over before the showers begin.

Early Completion Likely.

Under the plan of brevity and economy laid down by Mr. Coolidge himself, the entire official program should be concluded by mid-afternoon. It is the passing of the inaugural parade that usually drags out the ceremony until evening and this time there will be places in the pageant only for the governors of states and their staffs and less than 10,000 soldiers, sailors and marines assembled from posts nearby.

About 9,000 people will be seated in the stands on the capitol plaza to see Mr. Coolidge take the oath of office on his grandmother's Bible and seal his obligation by pressing his lips to the first chapter of St. John, which describes the baptism of Jesus by John the Baptist.

Another 4,000 will have places in the reviewing stand at the white house, but along Pennsylvania avenue there will be standing room only for the thousands who will gather there to cheer the state and national dignitaries and fighting men as they pass along in the footsteps of the great inaugural pageants of the past.

PRESBYTERIAN PROPERTY SOLD

Business Men To Pay $75,000 For Downtown Building and Ground.

First Church to Erect Edifice On New Site; Ready By Next Winter.

The First Presbyterian church at Thirteenth and M streets will be sold immediately to a group of Lincoln business men for $75,000, if an agreement made by church officials and a representative of the group at a meeting Monday evening is approved by the congregation March 11.

Plans that the church people had of building a new edifice on the present site are thus abandoned, but Chairman George J. Adams of the board of trustees states that several other locations are already under consideration, and that the new building will be ready before next winter.

The offer to buy was made Monday night before a joint meeting of the church elders and trustees, and several members of the congregation. It is understood that the business men are those interested in extending the business district along South Thirteenth street and that they will not demand possession of the property for several months or even two or three years. The church will be allowed to remove the organ, memorial windows and other articles.

Looking for Central Location.

Though sorry to give up the Thirteenth and M streets location, church officers felt that they could not turn down such a favorable offer, Mr. Adams said. Among the half dozen other locations between M and H streets and Twelfth and Seventeenth streets, the prices range from $18,000 to $27,000, and most of them are considered as good church locations as the present. The lots at Thirteenth and M streets measure 100 by 142 feet. A central location is desired for the new edifice.

The trustees were given to understand Monday night that the business men's group will be much pleased if another church is not built at Thirteenth and L streets, the site of the old First Congregational church. Since the price of this location is said to be $55,000, the First Presbyterian church has no intention of making use of it. Just as soon as the sale has been formally ratified the group will make known the identity of its members, a contract will be signed, and the $75,000 will be made payable on demand.

No definite plans have yet been made for the new church structure, but it is known that it will be without any of the modern additions, such as swimming pools, gymnasium or recreation rooms.

"It is out intention to make a true church, not an auditorium," said Mr. Adams.

The project will be financed by subscription from church members as far as possible. Some voluntary contributions have already been made, but none have been solicited.

TAKES OWN LIFE IN HOTEL ROOM

Former David City Resident Sends Bullet Into His Brain.

(Special to The Star.)

DAVID CITY, Neb., March 3.—J. Whitney formerly of David City was found dead in a hotel here Monday. It is a clear case of suicide, as he was shot through the temple and the revolver was in his hand. On a stand near the bed was a note to his children. The note said that it was a hard thing to do but that he was a nervous wreck from trouble. He requested that the children keep together and do the work best they could.

A letter was with the note which gave instructions to his son, Lloyd of Lincoln, as to the disposing of his belongings. For the last few years Mr. Whitney had been living in Hooper, Neb. He leaves five children. He was divorced from his wife in June 1923.

URGE AN AUDIT OF PUBLIC DEBT

House Probing Committee Majority Report Finds Bond Duplications.

Findings Follow An Investigation of U. S. Bureau Of Engraving.

MELLON COMMENTS.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(A. P.)—Secretary Mellon, in a letter to President Coolidge, today informed the executives that the treasury's "accusers," charging irregularities in the handling of securities remain "as far now from proving their charges as they were in 1920."

The secretary added that with the exception of a "petty theft" involving some $13,000 in bonds the two and one-half years of investigation by Charles B. Brewer, department of justice agent, and the more recent investigation by a special house committee had developed nothing further than a reiteration of the original charges made in 1920 by J. W. McCarter, a former deputy register of the treasury.

Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A report urging a complete audit of the public debt and other measures to correct conditions which were declared to have led to duplication of government bonds, some with fraudulent purpose, and the falsification of records, has been submitted by a majority of the house committee which investigated charges of irregularities in the bureau of engraving and printing.

Declaring that the proportion of bonds duplications which resulted from fraud is "not yet determined," the committee majority added that the report of the treasury relative to the matter is "incomplete, contradictory and evasive."

Along with the majority report, signed by Representative Kink, republican, Illinois, Steagle, democrat Alabama, and Stevenson, democrat, South Carolina, Chairman McFadden submitted a minority report yesterday declaring the majority findings were "incomplete, and that he could not subscribe to them because the hearings had not been continued topermit the treasury to present additional witnesses." Had this been done, he said, the majority might have presented "different conclusions and necessarily different recommendations.'

Kansas Solon Differs.

Representative Strong, republican, Kansas, in a separate minority report, found no basis at all for the majority conclusion, holding that while there had been duplication of bonds, he believed none were fraudulent or spurious. "Although there was evidence of errors and some petty thieving," his report said," it was not more than could be expected' in considering the great volume of war time securities. issued.

The majority report declared that duplicate bonds totalling 2,314 pairs ranging in denomination from $50 to $10,000, had been redeemed to July 1, 1924. To its charge that there had been duplicate payments of bonds stollen by employes from treasury vaults and again circulated, the report added that the extent of such thefts could not be ascertained because of "inexact methods and faulty accounting."

100 New Buildings Provided In Bill

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Authorization for the treasury to proceed, without regard to previous limit on cost, with construction of public buildings in nearly 100 cities scattered through forty states, would be given in amendment to a second deficiency bill proposed by Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida. It was eliminated by the initial conference on the measure, but Monday the senate insisted on its retention and returned the bill to conference. The amendment would authorize a lump appropriation of $7,900,000.

Offers To Ride Bombed Ship and Report On Hits

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The house aircraft committee yesterday received an offer from Dr. D. M. Ferguson of San Bentio, Cal., to stay on board a ship to observe the effect of aerial bombing, should a new series of tests be arranged as suggested by General Mitchell.

"I hereby volunteer to steer such a vessel and render a report of each strike if fate so ordains" Mr. Ferguson wrote. "I have no relatives."

At her bedside at the time of her death was her husband, and a daughter, Mrs. R. H. Bailey of Seattle, Washington. Another daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Inventor Says Was Kidnaped; Asks His Captors Be Jailed

CHICAGO, March 3.—Charging that he was kidnaped by two men in an automobile on January 25 and taken to El Centro, Cal., and held a prisoner by the men who sought to learn from him the secrets of an invention which he had recently perfected, P. G. Von Hildebrandt, a mechanic and chemical engineer, Monday asked Superintendent of Police Collins to apprehend his abductors.

Von Hildebrandt said he was reached by telephone by his office and told to meet the inquirers at the Congress hotel on January 24 for a consultation regarding chemical problems. He said the men were strangers and after partaking of drinks he became stupefied and later found himself in an automobile speeding westward. He declared he was tortured and threatened by his captors, who sought to learn his invention secrets, but that he finally escaped from them in the village of El Centro and fled in his captors' automobile. He turned over to the chief an overcoat and a cigaret box which he said he found in the car.

PRESBYTERIAN PROPERTY SOLD

Business Men To Pay $75,000 For Downtown Building and Ground.

First Church to Erect Edifice On New Site; Ready By Next Winter.

The First Presbyterian church at Thirteenth and M streets will be sold immediately to a group of Lincoln business men for $75,000, if an agreement made by church officials and a representative of the group at a meeting Monday evening is approved by the congregation March 11.

Plans that the church people had of building a new edifice on the present site are thus abandoned, but Chairman George J. Adams of the board of trustees states that several other locations are already under consideration, and that the new building will be ready before next winter.

The offer to buy was made Monday night before a joint meeting of the church elders and trustees, and several members of the congregation. It is understood that the business men are those interested in extending the business district along South Thirteenth street and that they will not demand possession of the property for several months or even two or three years. The church will be allowed to remove the organ, memorial windows and other articles.

Looking for Central Location.

Though sorry to give up the Thirteenth and M streets location, church officers felt that they could not turn down such a favorable offer, Mr. Adams said. Among the half dozen other locations between M and H streets and Twelfth and Seventeenth streets, the prices range from $18,000 to $27,000, and most of them are considered as good church locations as the present. The lots at Thirteenth and M streets measure 100 by 142 feet. A central location is desired for the new edifice.

The trustees were given to understand Monday night that the business men's group will be much pleased if another church is not built at Thirteenth and L streets, the site of the old First Congregational church. Since the price of this location is said to be $55,000, the First Presbyterian church has no intention of making use of it. Just as soon as the sale has been formally ratified, the group will make known the identity of its members, a contract will be signed, and the $75,000 will be made payable on demand.

No definite plans have yet been made for the new church structure, but it is known that it will be without any of the modern additions, such as swimming pools, gymnasium or recreation rooms.

"It is out intention to make a true church, not an auditorium," said Mr. Adams.

The project will be financed by subscription from church members as far as possible. Some voluntary contributions have already been made, but none have been solicited.

TAKES OWN LIFE IN HOTEL ROOM

Former David City Resident Sends Bullet Into His Brain.

(Special to The Star.)

DAVID CITY, Neb., March 3.—J. Whitney formerly of David City was found dead in a hotel here Monday. It is a clear case of suicide, as he was shot through the temple and the revolver was in his hand. On a stand near the bed was a note to his children. The note said that it was a hard thing to do but that he was a nervous wreck from trouble. He requested that the children keep together and do the work best they could.

A letter was with the note which gave instructions to his son, Lloyd of Lincoln, as to the disposing of his belongings. For the last few years Mr. Whitney had been living in Hooper, Neb. He leaves five children. He was divorced from his wife in June 1923.

URGE AN AUDIT OF PUBLIC DEBT

House Probing Committee Majority Report Finds Bond Duplications.

Findings Follow An Investigation of U. S. Bureau Of Engraving.

MELLON COMMENTS.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(A. P.)—Secretary Mellon, in a letter to President Coolidge, today informed the executives that the treasury's "accusers," charging irregularities in the handling of securities remain "as far now from proving their charges as they were in 1920."

The secretary added that with the exception of a "petty theft" involving some $13,000 in bonds the two and one-half years of investigation by Charles B. Brewer, department of justice agent, and the more recent investigation by a special house committee had developed nothing further than a reiteration of the original charges made in 1920 by J. W. McCarter, a former deputy register of the treasury.

Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A report urging a complete audit of the public debt and other measures to correct conditions which were declared to have led to duplication of government bonds, some with fraudulent purpose, and the falsification of records, has been submitted by a majority of the house committee which investigated charges of irregularities in the bureau of engraving and printing .

Declaring that the proportion of bonds duplications which resulted from fraud is "not yet determined," the committee majority added that the report of the treasury relative to the matter is "incomplete, contradictory and evasive."

Along with the majority report, signed by Representative Kink, republican, Illinois, Steagle, democrat Alabama, and Stevenson, democrat, South Carolina, Chairman McFadden submitted a minority report yesterday declaring the majority findings were "incomplete, and that he could not subscribe to them because the hearings had not been continued topermit the treasury to present additional witnesses." Had this been done, he said, the majority might have presented "different conclusions and necessarily different recommendations.'

Kansas Solon Differs.

Representative Strong, republican, Kansas, in a separate minority report, found no basis at all for the majority conclusion, holding that while there had been duplication of bonds, he believed none were fraudulent or spurious. "Although there was evidence of errors and some petty thieving," his report said," it was not more than could be expected' in considering the great volume of war time securities. issued.

The majority report declared that duplicate bonds totalling 2,314 pairs ranging in denomination from $50 to $10,000, had been redeemed to July 1, 1924. To its charge that there had been duplicate payments of bonds stollen by employes from treasury vaults and again circulated, the report added that the extent of such thefts could not be ascertained because of "inexact methods and faulty accounting."

100 New Buildings Provided In Bill

WASHINGTON, March 3. —Authorization for the treasury to proceed, without regard to previous limit on cost, with construction of public buildings in nearly 100 cities scattered through forty states, would be given in amendment to a second deficiency bill proposed by Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida. It was eliminated by the initial conference on the measure, but Monday the senate insisted on its retention and returned the bill to conference. The amendment would authorize a lump appropriation of $7,900,000.

Offers To Ride Bombed Ship and Report On Hits

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The house aircraft committee yesterday received an offer from Dr. D. M. Ferguson of San Bentio, Cal., to stay on board a ship to observe the effect of aerial bombing, should a new series of tests be arranged as suggested by General Mitchell.

"I hereby volunteer to steer such a vessel and render a report of each strike if fate so ordains" Mr. Ferguson wrote. "I have no relatives."

WIFE OF FORMER SENATOR CALLED

Mrs. Norris Brown Passes Away After Long Illness at Omaha Home.

OMAHA, Neb., March 3. — Mrs. Lulu K. Brown, wife of former United States Senator Norris Brown, died Monday afternoon at 3:30 at the Colonial apartments. Mrs. Brown had been ill with cancer a year and one-half, her sicknes becsoming acute three weeks ago. She was unconscious since the forenoon of Monday, the end coming peacefully.

At her bedside at the time of her death was her husband, and a daughter, Mrs. R. H. Bailey of Seattle, Washington. Another daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Jones of Seattle, left that city with her daughter, Lucille, for Omaha last night and will arrive here Thursday. Mrs. Brown was thought to be gaining until yesterday when a sudden change for the worse indicated that death was near.

Former Senator Brown and Judge Irving F. Baxter had been law partners for thirteen years, and the families had been very close to one another. On January 25 of this year, scarcely more than a month past, Mrs. Baxter died as the result of injuries received in an auto accident on the West Dodge road. Judge Baxter was in the car and received minor injuries at the time.

Mrs. Brown was born September 25, 1865, at Van Wert, O., and was married to Senator Brown at Perry, Ia., October 29, 1888. They had made their home in Omaha since 1912, coming here from Kearney, where they lived since coming to this state in 1888. For a period of years they made Lincoln their home when Senator Brown served as assistant attorney general and attorney general. Both daughters are graduates of the University of Nebraska.

Besides her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Brown is survived by a sister, Mrs. E. J. Osborne of Tacoma, Wash., who has been notified. Since coming to Omaha she was a member of the First Congregational church, and was active in church affairs. She was a lover of music, and was a member of and interested in organizations devoted to the arts. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

STRUCK BY AUTO AND BADLY HURT

Two Falls City Men In Hospital and Driver Of Car Arrested.

(Special to The Star.)

FALLS CITY, Neb., March 3.—Otto Gurschke, 48, former pastor of the Christ Lutheran church, and Len Tyler, waiter in a local restaurant, are in the Falls City hospital in a dangerous condition as a result of being run over by a car driven by Edward Wagner while they were crossing the street.

Gurschke is the most seriously injured and his recovery is doubtful, according to physicians. Tyler has an even chance to live.

Wagner was placed under arrest on the charge of reckless driving.

Gurschke gave up his ministerial profession about two years ago because he said he could not support a family on his salary and went to work for the James Poultry company of this city.

Inventor Says Was Kidnaped; Asks His Captors Be Jailed

CHICAGO, March 3.—Charging that he was kidnaped by two men in an automobile on January 25 and taken to El Centro, Cal., and held a prisoner by the men who sought to learn from him the secrets of an invention which he had recently perfected, P. G. Von Hildebrandt, a mechanic and chemical engineer, Monday asked Superintendent of Police Collins to apprehend his abductors.

Von Hildebrandt said he was reached by telephone by his office and told to meet the inquirers at the Congress hotel on January 24 for a consultation regarding chemical problems. He said the men were strangers and after partaking of drinks he became stupefied and later found himself in an automobile speeding westward. He declared he was tortured and threatened by his captors, who sought to learn his invention secrets, but that he finally escaped from them in the village of El Centro and fled in his captors' automobile. He turned over to the chief an overcoat and a cigaret box which he said he found in the car.

RESIGNATION ASKED.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Secretary Mellon has called for the resignation of Customs Collector Murray for the District of Hawaii, for the good of the service.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Healing Eczema With Cranberries

The mild acid juice found in cranberries seems to kill the tiny skin parasite which is the direct cause of Eczema and most skin irritations. With the cause removed the healing takes place quickly. Cranolene Healing Cream, used externally, is based on this discovery. In this cream the cranberry juices have been combined with soothing, cooling, healing oils. It instantly stops the itching and speedily restores the skin to its natural health and color. Cranolene is sold by druggists, [illegible] and $2.50 — sent postpaid on receipt of price. Samples free. Address: Cranolene, Girard, Kan.—Advertisement.

For Freckled, Rough or Muddy Complexion

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, gently peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There is no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. A little skin [illegible] comes off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.—Advertisement.

RUTH PYRTLE SPEAKER ON CINCINNATI PROGRAM.

[illegible] Clara [illegible] returned Sunday from the annual meeting of the department of superintendence held in Cincinnati. Miss Pyrtle gave an address before the elementary principals section stressing the economic value of the proper use of the principal's time. She said in part:

"Men and women should be chosen for principals because of their broad vision of life's values. Their thorough preparation for leadership not only of teachers but in community life, their sympathy and tact and in addition to these very necessary general qualifications a clear knowledge of the technique of instruction and the ability to give aid and direction to the individual teacher in her work.

"Much of a principal's time is needed for conference with parents and patrons to aid them in a better understanding of the ideals and standards of the school, to insure sympathetic co-operation in the [illegible] of the school and home in training of children for efficient citizenship.

"The community [illegible] the school and the community gets a bigger return for the investment of a principal's salary when the principal spends his time or her time in follow-up work of the school psychologist, the school doctor, tests and measurements department, the various supervisors etc., rather than in her office doing the work of an $80 clerk."

The favors for the ladies were aprons of an old style fashioned of crepe paper in gay colors and a great variety of plaids and stripes and for their partners were goatees and corn cob pipes. An exhibition quadrille by eight couples in old-fashioned costumes and an exhibition [illegible] dance during intermission furnished the attractive entertainment and carried out the old-fashioned idea. Refreshments of cider from an old keg and gingersnaps were served from a table covered with a red table cloth.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED

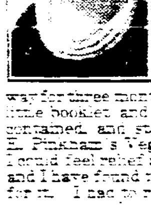
Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement.

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair and look twenty years younger with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger.—Advertisement.

SIDE PAINED HER TERRIBLY

After Childbirth Women Should Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Normal Conditions



St. Louis, Missouri.—"After my first child was born I was bothered with a pain in my side which became more severe the longer I let it go. It was terrible. I often had to lie down to get any relief. I was in a weak and run-down condition, and my side seemed to be the point for all the pain. I was this way for three months, then I read your little booklet and the testimonials it contained, and started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I could feel relief after the first bottle and I have found it to do all you claim for it. I had to repeat it again after my second child was born. I sure will recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. N. R. LAYTON, 2723A University St., St. Louis, Mo.

If you are suffering from any weakness which causes such symptoms as pains in the side and back and nervous feelings, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial now.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when relief is at hand.

PLANS RECEIVED FOR JUNIOR HIGH

New School Unit To Be Smaller Than The Whittier Building.

Several Structures To Be Removed From Proposed Sites.

Floor plans for Irving junior high school to be located at Van Dorn and Bur streets were submitted at the Tuesday morning meeting of the board of education by H. W. Meginnis, board architect. The school is [illegible] smaller unit than the Whittier [illegible] built upon such a plan that it may as need arises be expanded.

Petitions to the city council regarding the moving of houses in the proposed Park and Clinton sites were presented by Dr. B. F. Bailey, chairman of the special committee, and ratified by the board. Six houses, those in lots 6, 7, 8, 18, 19 and 20 block 2 in Cook's addition, will be removed according to the petition, with a total revenue from houses sold to be moved of $2,800. Houses on Clinton site to be wrecked net the board $575, and $315 will be realized from the houses wrecked on the proposed Park site. The board contemplates moving of other properties, some of which have been deeded to it, and some of which are not yet property of the board.

Lesson plans stressing the need for a safety campaign were presented at the board meeting, copies of the original plan by Miss LaVern Brubaker, a teacher in Elliott school, having been sent to the teachers throughout the system. The board discussed the advisability of taking moving pictures of children in danger from traffic.

Mrs. J. H. Frandsen's letter thanking the children of the schools for their aid in the presentation of the Parent-Teacher pageant, "Progress," presented February 20 at the high school auditorium, was read. Supt. M. C. Lefler reported on his attendance at the superintendent's division of the National Educational association.

The second annual state music contest to be held in Lincoln in May was announced.

Action regarding the boiler at Willard school was deferred awaiting action by the heating company.

An agreement by Hugh C. and E. J. McCall, promising to vacate by July 1 the strip of property within the line of the proposed Randolph building was received.

Healing Eczema With Cranberries

The mild acid juice found in Cranberries seems to kill the tiny skin parasite which is the direct cause of Eczema and most skin irritations. With the cause removed, the healing takes place quickly. Cranolene Healing Cream, used externally, is based on this discovery. In this cream the cranberry juices have been combined with soothing, cooling, healing oils. It instantly stops the itching and speedily restores the skin to its natural health and color. Cranolene is sold by druggists, 35c, $1 and $2.50 or sent postpaid on receipt of price. Samples free. Address: Cranolene, Girard, Kan. —Advertisement.

For Freckled, Rough or Muddy Complexion

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.—Advertisement.

RUTH PYRTLE SPEAKER ON CINCINNATI PROGRAM.

Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle and Miss Clara Slade returned Sunday from the annual meeting of the department of superintendence held in Cincinnati, O. Miss Pyrtle gave an address before the elementary principals' section stressing the economic value of the proper use of the principal's time. She said in part:

Men and women should be chosen for principals because of their broad vision of life's values. Their thorough preparation for leadership not only of teachers but in community life, their sympathy and tact, and in addition to these very necessary general qualifications a clear knowledge of the technique of instruction and the ability to give aid and direction to the individual teacher n her work.

"Much of a principal's time is needed for conference with parents and patrons to aid them in a better understanding of the ideals and standards of the school, to insure sympathetic cooperation in the joint job of school and home in training our children for efficient citizenship.

"The individual child, the school and the community gets a bigger return for the investment of a principal's salary when the principal spends his time or her time in follow-up work of the scool psychologist, the school doctor, tests and measurements department the various supervisors etc., rather than in her office doing the work of an $80 clerk"

Heads Cleared
In Colds or Catarrh

The way to clear the head quickly is with Ely's Cream Balm. Apply it in the nostrils and breathe it. The fumes are antiseptic. They combat the germ attack. The head is cleared, the inflammation is subdued, the whole trouble is checked at once.

Internal treatments deal only with results. They are slow. Combat the germs where they attack. End the misery, stop the cold.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Get its quick relief. That is the right way with a head cold or catarrh.—Advertisement.

Continental to Purchase More Traction Stock

An agreement to buy $500,000 more of preferred Lincoln Traction Company stock has just been made by the Continental Gas and Electric company, with a view to facilitating consolidation of the traction company with the local gas and electric company, according to an announcement by President W. E. Sharp of the Traction Company.

The Continental company offers to exchange on a basis of $60 a share and give prior preference 7 per cent preferred stock of their company on a basis of par. This stock is selling on the Chicago and New York market at $95 a share. Fractional shares will be paid for in cash on the basis of $50 per share.

This basis of exchange is said to be very favorable, because the Continental stock is 7 per cent paper instead of 6 per cent; and because it is listed and may be sold at any time.

Mr. Sharp recently returned from New York where he made arrangements for this trade. He states that after buying this block of stock, the Continental will own all but a few hundred thousand dollars worth of the traction company stock, and when it wishes to combine the two local power firms, it can do so without much difficulty. No time has yet been set for the consolidation.

Chest Colds are Quickly Banished by Amazing Denver Mud

Nearly all pneumonia cases result from neglected chest colds. Chest colds, of themselves, do not seem serious but only a few hours are necessary for dread pneumonia to develop. The best way to be rid of pneumonia is to prevent it—prevent it by breaking up chest colds as soon as they appear. This can be best done by applying heated Denver Mud to throat and chest. This amazing healing mud maintains a moist heat for many hours and draws out all inflammation and scatters the congestion. Hospitals and physicians everywhere have used this famous Denver Mud for over thirty years in treating all kinds of inflammation and congestion. Don't be without Denver Mud another day. Have it always handy for the prompt treatment of sore throat and chest colds. It has, without doubt, prevented hundreds of serious cases of pneumonia. Your druggist has Denver Mud in convenient sizes.—Advertisement.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

Continental to Purchase More Traction Stock

An agreement to buy $500,000 more of preferred Lincoln Traction Company stock has just been made by the Continental Gas and Electric company, with a view to facilitating consolidation of the traction company with the local gas and electric company, according to an announcement by President W. E. Sharp of the Traction Company.

The Continental company offers to exchange on a basis of $60 a share and give prior preference 7 per cent preferred stock of their company on a basis of par. This stock is selling on the Chicago and New York market at $95 a share. Fractional shares will be paid for in cash on the basis of $50 per share.

This basis of exchange is said to be very favorable, because the Continental stock is 7 per cent paper instead of 6 per cent; and because it is listed and may be sold at any time.

Mr. Sharp recently returned from New York where he made arrangements for this trade. He states that after buying this block of stock, the Continental will own all but a few hundred thousand dollars worth of the traction company stock, and when it wishes to combine the two local power firms, it can do so without much difficulty. No time has yet been set for the consolidation.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

Hospitals and physicians everywhere have used this famous Denver Mud for over thirty years in treating all kinds of inflammation and congestion. Don't be without Denver Mud another day. Have it always handy for the prompt treatment of sore throat and chest colds. It has, without doubt, prevented hundreds of serious cases of pneumonia. Actual operations of erecting a new passenger station by the Burlington railroad in Lincoln either as a station for that company alone or as a depot to be used as a union station cannot begin before 1927 according to a statement made by Hale Holden to the committee of the chamber of commerce which visited the president of the Burlington in Chicago last week An announcement of the company's position was made today following a meeting of the committee

The committee's statement follows

Mr Holden stated to the committee and for publication in effect that the C B & Q renews its statement heretofore made that the company was prepared to construct a depot on the present Burlington depot site with [illegible] and reasonable rentals and costs to the other railroads in Lincoln He stated also that the C B & Q was awaiting decision as to whether Lincoln wanted and could get all roads to agree on a union passenger station on the present C B & Q depot site or wished only a C B & Q station Upon this decision Mr Holden stated he was then prepared to go to his board of directors and give specific requirements and plans that would not be again altered and return a satisfactory reply He emphasized in his talk as the first requisite for further procedure namely that the C B & Q officials have a definite and certain decision from the chamber of commerce directors and all business interests of Lincoln on whether the Burlington build its new depot to care for all future demands for itself only or to accommodate the passenger business for several roads in Lincoln He also stated actual operation could not begin before 1927

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color which is quite sensible as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage

Nowadays though we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home All drug stores sell the ready to use product improved by the addition of other ingredients called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time By morning the gray hair disappears but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive —Advertisement.

MAKE REPORT ON DEPOT PROJECT

Burlington Assures Lincoln Committee Might Build In 1927.

Willing to Erect Union Station Or One For Own Use Only.

Actual operations of erecting a new passenger station by the Burlington railroad in Lincoln, either as a station for that company alone, or as a depot to be used as a union station, cannot begin before 1927, according to a statement made by Hale Holden to the committee of the chamber of commerce which visited the president of the Burlington in Chicago last week. Announcement of the company's position was made today following a meeting of the committee.

The committee's statement follows:

Mr. Holden stated to the committee and for publication, in effect—that the C. B. & Q. renews its statement heretofore made that the company was prepared to contract a depot on the present Burlington depot site with sane and reasonable rentals and costs to the other railroads in Lincoln. He stated also that the C. B. & Q. was awaiting decision as to whether Lincoln wanted and could get all roads to agree on a union passenger station on the present C. B. & Q. depot site, or wished only a C. B. & Q. station. "Upon this decision, Mr. Holden stated, he was then prepared to go to his board of directors and give specific requirements and plans that would not be again altered and return a satisfactory reply. He emphasized in his talk as the first requisite for further procedure, namely, that the C. B. & Q. officials have a definite and certain decision from the chamber of commerce directors and all business interests of Lincoln on whether the Burlington build its new depot to care for all future demands for itself only, or to accommodate the passenger business for several roads in Lincoln. He also stated actual operation could not begin before 1927."

NEBRASKANS ARE GIVEN WELCOME

Governor McMullen and Staff Reach the National Capital.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Arriving this morning to participate in the inauguration, Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska, with his military staff, began participation in an elaborate program of entertainment arranged for him by official Washington, and by various groups of Nebraskans in the capital.

The governor was welcomed by a committee of Nebraska's resident here, who were appointed by the inaugural committee.

First on Governor McMullen's program was a visit to the capitol with his staff, where as a guest of the Nebraska delegation, he witnessed the proceedings of congress. He was entertained by Congressman R. G. Simmons of the Sixth Nebraska district at a luncheon at the capitol.

Accompanying the governor and Mrs. McMullen here were Adjutant General H. J. Paul, Major H. C. Stein, assistant adjutant general and a staff of aides, including Major M. L. Poteet, Colonel H. Winett Orr, Colonel Amos Thomas and Captain Harry K. Grainger, all of Lincoln.

The governor's party, on arrival at the Union station, was conducted to the presidential suite and later escorted to the Shoreham hotel by the citizens' committee, which was made up by W. B. Hibbs of this city as chairman, W. C. Snyder of Nebraska, and Congressman M. O. McLaughlin, who represents the governor's home district in congress.

Norton Is Given Term In Prison

KEARNEY, Neb., March 3.—Jack Norton, who is alleged to have come here a month ago with the intention of locating his missing wife, killing her and then committing suicide, and who has spent the entire four weeks in a hospital suffering from wounds self inflicted after failing to find his wife, was Monday sentenced to one year in the penitentiary on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

High Prices For Red Willow Land

(Special to The Star.)

McCOOK, Neb., March 3.—A record sale of farm land has just been made here when Milton Clark sold fifty acres of his fruit farm south of McCook to Alonzo Harris for $10,000, or $200 per acre. The early owner of this farm, W. S. Morlan, deceased, bought a quarter section of the land from the homesteader for $10 per acre, and the half section was bought by Mr. Clark from Mrs. Morlan for $50,000 a few years since.

STILL CONFER ON BEET CONTRACT

No Agreement Reached By Growers and Buyers At Denver.

DENVER, March 3.—Beet growers of Wyoming, Nebraska and northern Colorado resumed their conferences here today in an effort to reach an agreement on the terms of the 1925 sugar beet contract. No agreement was reached at yesterday's conference.

While the growers were meeting in executive session, representatives of a group of commercial clubs of northern Colorado were conferring on proposals which might bring together the growers and the buyers on a compromise basis. The buyers, represented chiefly by the Great Western Sugar company, had no new offers to make today.

The meetings were behind closed doors and the various delegates on leaving refused to talk to newspaper reporters. They all said they had been "pledged to secrecy."

It was pointed out that the delegates here from Wyoming, Montana and Nebraska were acting only in an "advisory capacity." It is understood that there exists a "gentlemen's agreement" between the growers of these states and Colorado relative to contracts.

Among the representatives of out of state growers were: Frank Thomas, Morrill, Neb., president of the Beet Growers' association of Nebraska; L. L. Leonard, secretary of the Nebraska association, and T. C. Osborn, a director.

Adams County to Have Five Days Fair This Year

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., March 3.—This year's Adams county fair will be a 5-day event instead of one of four days as heretofore. Since the fair was opened here three years ago, it has shown almost phenomenal growth until it is now one of the largest county fairs in the state and surrounding counties are asking that it be made a district fair. A movement toward that end was started some time ago but conferences with legislators and other state officers caused the committee to decide that it would be better to wait at least another year before launching the plan.

Auto races will mark the extra day of the fair, which is to open on August 18 and close August 22. The board is also considering a contract with Francis E. Sharp of Hastings for auto polo as a feature of the opening day. Auto race contracts call for seven racing cars with professional drivers providing six events. Free attractions and fireworks displays have already been contracted for for each day of the fair. The concessions committee expects to close contracts providing for rides and amusement features within the next few days.

Requisitions For Two Men Issued

Requisitions for the return of two men wanted in Richardson county, one for the theft of an automobile and the other for breaking jail at Falls City, have been issued from the governor's office and delivered to Sheriff A. R. Young of that country, who will go to Pawhuska, Okla., where the pair are under arrest, and bring them back.

J. R. Nelson, accused of stealing an automobile from F. A. Jones in July, 1923 is one of the men. The other is Walter Eickhoff, who is charged with breaking jail on May 5, 1924, after he had been sentenced to one year in the penitentiary for stealing some automobile accessories from Louis Bucholz.

Nelson was going under the name of Bud Cook at the time of his arrest in Oklahoma.

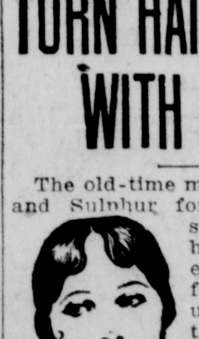
Senate Convenes With Robbins As Presiding Officer

The senate convened at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday after the recess which began last Friday afternoon. Acting Governor Williams turned over the gavel to President Protern Robbins, who will preside over the senate during Governor's McMullen's absence.

A new gavel was presented Mr. Williams by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Badger, his old friends and neighbors and pioneers of Filmore county. The gavel is made from the wood of an ash tree on the Badger farm.

S. F. 222, providing that only real butter be used at the Nebraska state institutions, was reported out for the general file by the standing committee. S. F. 256 by Johnson, a joint and concurrent resolution to the same effect os S. F. 222, was reported out with a recommendation for indefinite postponement, which was adopted.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA



The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Advertisement.

THE DEPOT SITUATION.

After sixteen years of agitation Lincoln discovers that its efforts to secure more adequate depot facilities have been of little consequence

No other interpretation can be made of the statement which President Hale Holden made to the members of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce committee which conferred with him last Saturda

In months there have been reassuring statements from those prominently identified with the Chamber activities that the Burlington was contemplating early building activities in this city In some instances the word has gone forth unofficially it is true that plans for a new Burlington station were already being sketched and that it would be only a few months before an announcement of interest would be forthcoming Mr Holden very definitely spiked this report He indicated that the Burlington did not consider the present time as auspicious for consideration of new depot facilities in this city It might be one two or three years before the Burlington was ready to give serious thought to a new station And then he suggested that it had been difficult to anticipate Lincoln's desires in the depot matter and as a result the Burlington had been unsettled as to what it should do

That is not a flattering appraisal of the work of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce For years there had been sporadic efforts to obtain a union station in this city Then in view of the complicated problems presented in the plan for a union depot the Chamber two years ago adopted the resolution requesting the Burlington to build a new depot The people of Lincoln were willing to abide by the decision and were ready to abandon the program of a union station if the Burlington would construct a depot of fitting proportions for a city of this size But Lincoln has been fed with promises which have meant nothing because they were not officially made until it has become disgusted That is why a bill is now pending in the Nebraska legislature to force the railroads to provide a decent depot in this city

Mr Holden's suggestion that Lincoln does not know what it wants is amusing

Certainly no one conversant with the conditions could have mistaken the sentiment of 90 per cent of the citizens of this city First of all Lincoln wanted a union station with all of the railroads brought under one roof including the Rock Island But the people recognized there were and are certain obstacles to this program A number of industries have been built up along the Rock Island tracks in the Antelope valley Their removal would be a costly and expensive enterprise But there are no such stumbling blocks to a depot housing the Burlington the Union Pacific the Northwestern and the Missouri Pacific In view of the difficulties of moving the Rock Island Lincoln has hoped that the Burlington would build a station adequate to house the other four roads upon terms decided by a fair and impartial tribunal or through voluntary agreement between them

Mr Holden cannot shift responsibility for the conflicting sentiment over a union station at this time Lincoln surrendered its dream because of the apparently insurmountable obstacles which the railroads themselves placed in the path of a union station It consented to the program of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce because it was felt that action could be secured in this way Now it finds that the plan for a new Burlington station has no immediate substantial foundation It would seem that the demand that something to be done is furnishing the pretext for further delay

The depot facilities of the railroad handling an overwhelming preponderance of all freight and passenger business in this city are a shame and disgrace to Lincoln The Burlington station was built in 1874 and while some thousands have been spent in repairs and remodelling it is totally inadequate to provide for the needs of this city It is unthinkable that Lincoln should delay action longer

If Lincoln has been unable to make its desires known it is high time that it is using language that can be understood

INSPIRED ECONOMY

Representative Sanders of Indiana in a heroic moment succeeded in preventing a generous congress from increasing his pay Congress had been particularly lavish in its expenditures The members had voted themselves a pay increase had provided larger salaries for the members of the president's cabinet and had also provided for the private secretary

Mr Sanders had the time of his life in preventing congress from overdoing in its generosity At first the members refused to listen to him and passed the bill with the increase in it but after some frenzied lobbying he succeeded in having the measure reconsidered and the clause affecting him stricken out

The president's secretary did a very decent thing He showed a commendable spirit in considering the fortunes of an administration sworn to the most rigid economy But Mr Sanders also did handsomely by himself in escaping embarrassment if he had permitted congress to give him a large salary The constitution provides that no senator or representative shall during the time for which he was elected be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time

THE GROSSMAN PARDON CASE

When the constitution of the United States was formulated its makers put in a provision giving the president power to issue reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States except in cases of impeachment This was intended to permit executive action for the purpose of preventing any manifest miscarriage of justice as well as to make possible the tempering of justice with mercy

President Coolidge saw fit [illegible] ago to issue a pardon to a Chicago man named Grossman who had been sent to jail for contempt of court by a triumvirate of federal judges in that city The judges felt aggrieved over the fact that one of their orders had not been complied with in all its technical details So they had haled the culprit before them and sentenced him to spend a lengthy period in jail from which the president's act of clemency relieved him

Then it was that the judicial dignitaries became peeved had the man rearrested and placed in confinement again on the ground that the pardoning [illegible] cases They took the position that the courts are a law unto themselves in all such matters and that not even the chief executive of the United States could interfere

That dictum was challenged in an appeal to the federal supreme court on behalf of the victim of the proceeding Now the high bench holds that the president has power to pardon for contempt the same as for crimes where trial and conviction was had before a jury This vetoes the effort of the three Chicago judges to set themselves up as autocrats superior to all other civil authority

It would not be reassuring to the people of the United States if the right of a judge to sentence for contempt without trial were made absolute and not subject to reversal by any other constitutional agency While such power would doubtless be used sparingly by courts in general there are some men on the bench whose temperaments would lead them to its abuse

There have been many instances where the presidential pardoning power was not wisely exercised [illegible] who should have been required to suffer the penalties imposed upon them But the right of the president to pardon is one of the constitution's most effective guarantees to American citizens that the liberties they enjoy under the constitution will not be taken away through any usurpation of power by the judiciary

Abraham Lincoln even went to the length of pardoning a considerable number of soldiers in the union army during the civil war who had been convicted by military courts for various offenses some verging on treason If these acts could be justified in time of national peril certainly it is entirely proper for the president to exercise his judgement in granting pardons for lesser offenses when the country is at peace

A THRONE GOES BEGGING

Since 1911 one European country has been seeking an eligible person to accept the kingship and has thus far been unable to locate anyone willing to accept the job It was in November of the year mentioned that Albania promulgated its latest declaration of independence and since then it has sought far and near for someone willing to wear its diadem but the throne still remains vacant while the crown accumulates dust and tarnish For a few months Prince William of Wied presided as mpret of Albania having been sent by the kaiser for that purpose but when the world war broke out he took his departure and since then the country hasn't even had an mpret

But that isn't the only thing Albania is without It has no railways no banks very few highways and practically no bridges Its frontiers are uncertain and so is nearly everything else thereabout including expectancy of life This seems to have been keenly realized by the many who have been besought to accept the regal scepter which includes a few citizens of the United States

Among the first of these was a popular New Yorker Prince Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte great grandson of King Jerome of Westphalia and beautiful Betsy Patterson of Baltimore He however much preferred the bright lights of Broadway to a land where electricity is comparatively unknown so he declined with thanks After the job had been offered to an Englishman who as a prerequisite demanded a half million dollars down and a salary of $50 000 a year the Albanians decided upon a man who would need no salary and proffered the place to William B Leeds inheritor of the tinplate millions and husband of Princess Xenia of Greece Mr Leeds however declared the king business too stupid he having had opportunity to observe it at close quarters He turned the job down and even treated it with contempt saying that if he ever became a king it would be of a better country than Albania

Many others from various countries have been offered the Albanian throne but all have turned away The Albanians are altogether too mercurial They are what might be called flighty and they are as fierce as they are changeable When they grow tired of a thing they get rid of it and their prospective kings evidently fear not only for their tenure of office but also for their tenure of life So the crown goes a begging

THE FRENCH DOMESTIC DEBT

France faces payment of huge debts this year—not the American debts which she has refused to consider for a while but the debts of her own people The unspoken threat of the French bondholders is actually more serious to treasury officials at Paris than would be a note of real indignation in a message from the United States government on the same question

The unspoken threat in France is of a panic If any hesitation any faltering over the payment of cash is seen the franc will start for the depths of the mark and the whole country be thrown ing a panic that might compare with nothing other than conditions in Germany a few months ago

The franc is now stabilized but only at the expense of drastic measures against inflation Courts have ruled that not more than 41 000 000 000 francs can be in circulation and that limit has already been nearly reached Payments on the national defense bonds cannot be made by paper for the government is unable to issue any They cannot be made in gold for the government has little There is only one recourse—payment by check

That sounds simple here but in France it means a revision of the financial system Even the largest commercial houses in Paris are often unwilling to take checks or positively refuse to do so The problem of the government then is to bring small investors and wage earners all over the country to the casual acceptance of the check system A start has been made by requiring most officials to accept their wages in checks The rest will follow naturally it is hoped

England overcame a financial panic in 1844 by the introduction of the check system It is strange that France has not hit on so simple an expedient sooner

More Truth Than Poetry

This is an age of unrest
  The pace is tremendously fast
It's hurry all day for pleasure or pay
  Contentment's a thing of the past
Few people are willing to wait
  For the profit that effort may bring
It's hustle and zipp
Give patience the slip
  Remember that speed is the thing

This is no time to sit down
  In a corner where silence prevails
Make a lot of loud noise hit it up with the boys
  On the crowded and slippery trails
Let the old and the wary be scorned
  Forget their unwelcome advice
Be up on your toes
With no time for repose
  Make haste though your health be the price

This is no time for the lean
  Pale student whose forehead is tall
Leave books on the shelf give account of yourself
  Where the slow are soon pressed to the wall
Make Hurry and Hustle your creed
  Let Speed be the god that you serve
Step hard on the gas
And leave smoke where you pass
  Rip through on the edge of your nerve

This is the age of unrest
  Action's the word that we hear
With pleasure we lift our hats to the swift
  And be damned to the man in the rear
We have turned from the ways of the past
  It's hasten to work or at play
Geared always in high
With a roar we go by
  And I'm glad to be living today

Sick Headache

Sick headache is comparable to seasickness because it makes one wish one were dead The pain is usually terrific and is accompanied with constant vomiting and retching

Sick headache or migraine is a disease that manifests itself in paroxysms The frequency of these attacks varies but two a month is usually the limit

The cause of this condition has been sought for many years and careful study has laid the cause at [illegible] ing

In nearly 100 per cent of these cases a family tendency is present It is usually traced back to the mother or father and even to the grandparents In large families that have sick headaches usually every member of that family has these attacks It chooses not only the white race but every race It harasses the rich as well as the poor and money can do little to alleviate it

Women are more often affected with this condition than are men Perhaps this is best explained by the more pronounced nervous tendencies among women At the time of the menopause the attacks seem to become aggravated and occur even in young girlhood when menstrual disturbances are present

Some medical men claim that migraine is due to various foci of infection and this assumption is many times correct The usual focus is in the teeth tonsils eyes gall bladder and the generative organs Many times the sicknesses clear up upon removal of these foci

The symptoms of migraine are well known It occurs as a severe headache usually on one side of the head The pain is sharp penetrating and boring in character It usually spreads from a single spot and involves the whole side of the head It may pass into the neck and even into the arm of the affected side Nausea and vomiting are usually present and after vomiting the pain tends to subside During the attack the patient is unable to raise his head from the pillow The slightest noise aggravates the condition

The severe forms of this disease lasts for about three days The disease recurs for many years but usually disappears in women after the fiftieth year and after fifty five in men

Usu [illegible] the causes that bring on the attack The avoidance of excitement regularity of meals and a moderate diet may stave off the attack The removal of all possible foci of infection may end the trouble Always have the eyes examined for possible refractory errors

Here again the rule of the old book agent is invaluable He lives on and on by continually living up to his rule for health Keep your head cool your feet warm your conscience clear and your bowels open

Questions and Answers

Questions on health topics may be addressed to Dr Perry in care of this newspaper

C M Y—Last winter I had a wart on my hand Now almost the whole back of my hand is covered with them What causes warts and what will cure them

Answer—Warts are due to a microscopic parasite which is transmitted from person to person or from one area of the body to another Get some nitric acid from the druggist and apply very carefully with a toothpick and a tuft of cotton It is highly corrosive so have some baking soda handy as an antidote in case you accidentally drop some in the wrong place

Questions and Answers

Susan—I have been very nervous for some time My stomach and bowels are very bad and I have gas on my stomach all the time which causes my heart to palpitate Can you tell me what to do for it? Also about two days after washing my hair which I do twice a week it becomes oily again It is falling badly and I have some dandruff

Answer—Your condition is one that requires the attention of a physician Very likely you have a gastritis that can only be cured by a suitable diet and rest A complete analysis of the stomach contents should be made and a careful physical examination will undoubtedly reveal the exact cause of your condition

The only relief that you will get from the head condition is to be continual head washes Use plain tincture of green soap and wash your hair every other day for two weeks and then at weekly intervals

Mrs B—I am going to have a baby and desire a boy very much Is there anything I can do to make me have one? I have heard of such things

Answer—It is impossible for you to determine by any prenatal influence the sex of your unborn child

E S C—Will medical treatments ever cure an over secretive thyroid gland or is cutting necessary

Answer—Surgery should be the last resort in simple thyroid enlargement These cases usually respond to medical treatment If the condition is one of toxic thyroid the surgical removal is much to be preferred Usually goiter patients are given medical treatment prior to any attempt to operate

J R J—About a year ago I was rejected from an insurance company because of high blood pressure Small black spots appear at times before my eyes I am 21 years old weigh 155 pounds and am 6 feet tall My heart action quickens when I do any great exertion and some time passes before it reaches normal again When I am quiet my heart beats [illegible] times a minute I do not know how this condition came about unless because of overwork

Answer—If you have been rejected by life insurance companies because of a bad heart you should use every means to determine the exact condition and abide by the instructions given by your doctor From symptoms that you describe I feel that you have an endocarditis with a probable change in the heart muscle If this condition is treated early a complete change is quite possible See your doctor

Mrs C H E—Through The Lincoln Star I learn that you will consider questions on health topics and I am very much alarmed about some ear trouble I am having For several months past I have been bothered with an itching It seems to be inward and now has developed a slight pain It is growing worse

Answer—You should take no chances with an ear [illegible] See your doctor who can easily tell you whether the process is a severe one It is highly probable that you have an eczematous condition of the outer ear Do not aggravate the condition by scratching and use [illegible] as little as possible A good phenol ointment will stop the itching

Reader—Every spring almost I have a sort of run down weak feeling accompanied by loss of appetite I am considerably under weight and am a girl in the early thirties Would cod liver oil benefit me that is help me put on weight? Would it affect the stomach in any way I would hesitate to take it if it would as I have had an operation for an ulcerous stomach condition several years ago

Answer—The use of cod liver oil will not be harmful to your stomach condition It is indeed a valuable agent in supplying deficient food elements and usually will aid in gaining weight

Size of The House

(Beatrice Sun)

A motion the effect of which would have been to reduce the number of members of the national house of representatives was killed on a point of order the other day Members of Congress fear any agitation of this question because they do not wish to diminish their chances of election They all know that the size of the house is too great to permit it to function efficiently but they dislike to reduce its size

Considering the population of the country there are not too many representatives in Washington but the body is unwieldly and cumbersome

It would be cheering news to learn that the national house members are becoming conscious of the inefficiency of their organization for that will cause them to realize the limitations to the legislative field they can cover They have undertaken to regulate too many things with the result that the country is overrun with government agents

Rejection of the child labor amendment by the legislatures of a sufficient number of state to cause its defeat has the country's approval Congress passed the amendment probably under the impression that somebody wanted it but the country approves the refusal to ratify

Restriction of the field of operations of the national house is of greater importance to the country than reduction of the number of its members When Congress can learn that there is a desire on the part of the country for less federal legislation progress will have been made Members who regard themselves as competitors of state legislatures mistake the purpose of the national house

THE DEPOT SITUATION.

After sixteen years of agitation, Lincoln discovers that its efforts to secure more adequate depot facilities have been of little consequence.

No other interpretation can be made of the statement which President Hale Holden made to the members of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce committee which conferred with him last Saturday.

For months there have been reassuring statements from those prominently identified with the Chamber activities that the Burlington was contemplating early building activities in this city. In some instances the word has gone forth, unofficially, it is true, that plans for a new Burlington station were already being sketched and that it would be only a few months before an announcement of interest would be forthcoming. Mr. Holden very definitely spiked this report. He indicated that the Burlington did not consider the present time as auspicious for consideration of new depot facilities in this city. It might be one, two or three years before the Burlington was ready to give serious thought to a new station. And then he suggested that it had been difficult to anticipate Lincoln's desires in the depot matter and as a result the Burlington had been unsettled as to what it should do.

That is not a flattering appraisal of the work of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce. For years there had been sporadic efforts to obtain a union station in this city. Then, in view of the complicated problems presented in the plan for a union depot, the Chamber two years ago adopted the resolution requesting the Burlington to build a new depot. The people of Lincoln were willing to abide by the decision and were ready to abandon the program of a union station if the Burlington would construct a depot of fitting proportions for a city of this size. But Lincoln has been fed with promises which have meant nothing because they were not officially made, until it has become disgusted. That is why a bill is now pending in the Nebraska legislature to force the railroads to provide a decent depot in this city.

Mr. Holden's suggestion that Lincoln does not know what it wants is amusing.

Certainly no one conversant with the conditions could have mistaken the sentiment of 90 per cent of the citizens of this city. First of all Lincoln wanted a union station, with all of the railroads brought under one roof, including the Rock Island. But the people recognized there were and are certain obstacles to this program. A number of industries have been built up along the Rock Island tracks in the Antelope valley. Their removal would be a costly and expensive enterprise. But there are no such stumbling blocks to a depot housing the Burlington, the Union Pacific, the Northwestern and the Missouri Pacific. In view of the difficulties of moving the Rock Island Lincoln has hoped that the Burlington would build a station adequate to house the other four roads upon terms decided by a fair and impartial tribunal or through voluntary agreement between them.

Mr. Holden cannot shift responsibility for the conflicting sentiment over a union station at this time. Lincoln surrendered its dream because of the apparently insurmountable obstacles which the railroads themselves placed in the path of a union station. It consented to the program of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce because it was felt that action could be secured in this way. Now it finds that the plan for a new Burlington station has no immediate substantial foundation. It would seem that the demand that something to be done is furnishing the pretext for further delay.

The depot facilities of the railroad, handling an overwhelming preponderance of all freight and passenger business in this city, are a shame and disgrace to Lincoln. The Burlington station was built in 1874, and while some thousands have been spent in repairs and remodelling, it is totally inadequate to provide for the needs of this city. It is unthinkable that Lincoln should delay action longer.

If Lincoln has been unable to make its desires known, it is high time that it is using language that can be understood.

INSPIRED ECONOMY.

Representative Sanders of Indiana in a heroic moment succeeded in preventing a generous congress from increasing his pay. Congress had been particularly lavish in its expenditures. The members had voted themselves a pay increase, had provided larger salaries for the members of the president's cabinet and had also provided for the private secretary.

Mr. Sanders had the time of his life in preventing congress from overdoing in its generosity. At first the members refused to listen to him and passed the bill with the increase in it, but after some frenzied lobbying, he succeeded in having the measure reconsidered and the clause affecting him stricken out.

The president's secretary did a very decent thing. He showed a commendable spirit in considering the fortunes of an administration sworn to the most rigid economy. But Mr. Sanders also did handsomely by himself in escaping embarrassment if he had permitted congress to give him a large salary. The constitution provides that 'no senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time."

THE GROSSMAN PARDON CASE.

When the constitution of the United States was formulated, its makers put in a provision giving the president power to issue reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment. This was intended to permit executive action for the purpose of preventing any manifest miscarriage of justice, as well as to make possible the tempering of justice with mercy.

President Coolidge saw fit, a year or more ago, to issue a pardon to a Chicago man named Grossman, who had been sent to jail for contempt of court by a triumvirate of federal judges in that city. The judges felt aggrieved over the fact that one of their orders had not been complied with in all its technical details. So they had haled the culprit before them and sentenced him to spend a lengthy period in jail, from which the president's act of clemency relieved him.

Then it was that the judicial dignitaries became peeved, had the man rearrested and placed in confinement again, on the ground that the pardoning power of the president did not extend to contempt cases. They took the position that the courts are a law unto themselves in all such matters, and that not even the chief executive of the United States could interfere.

That dictum was challenged in an appeal to the federal supreme court on behalf of the victim of the proceeding. Now the high bench holds that the president has power to pardon for contempt, the same as for crimes where trial and conviction was had before a jury. This vetoes the effort of the three Chicago judges to set themselves up as autocrats superior to all other civil authority.

It would not be reassuring to the people of the United States if the right of a judge to sentence for contempt, without trial, were made absolute and not subject to reversal by any other constitutional agency. While such power would doubtless be used sparingly by courts in general, there are some men on the bench whose temperaments would lead them to its abuse.

There have been many instances where the presidential pardoning power was not wisely exercised. Some persons have gone free by executive order, who should have been required to suffer the penalties imposed upon them. But the right of the president to pardon is one of the constitution's most effective guarantees to American citizens that the liberties they enjoy under the constitution will not be taken away through any usurpation of power by the judiciary.

Abraham Lincoln even went to the length of pardoning a considerable number of soldiers in the union army, during the civil war, who had been convicted by military courts for various offenses, some verging on treason. If these acts could be justified in time of national peril, certainly it is entirely proper for the president to exercise his judgement in granting pardons for lesser offenses when the country is at peace.

A THRONE GOES BEGGING.

Since 1912 one European country has been seeking an eligible person to accept the kingship and has thus far been unable to locate anyone willing to accept the job. It was in November of the year mentioned that Albania promulgated its latest declaration of independence and since then it has sought far and near for someone willing to wear its diadem, but the throne still remains vacant while the crown accumulates dust and tarnish. For a few months Prince William of Wied presided as mpret of Albania, having been sent by the kaiser for that purpose, but when the world war broke out he took his departure and since then the country hasn't even had an mpret.

But that isn't the only thing Albania is without. It has no railways, no banks, very few highways and practically no bridges. Its frontiers are uncertain and so is nearly everything else thereabout, including expectancy of life. This seems to have been keenly realized by the many who have been besought to accept the regal scepter, which includes a few citizens of the United States.

Among the first of these was a popular New Yorker, Price Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, great-grandson of King Jerome of Westphalia and beautiful Betsy Patterson of Baltimore. He, however, much preferred the bright lights of Broadway to a land where electricity is comparatively unknown, so he declined with thanks. After the job had been offered to an Englishman, who as a prerequisite demanded a half million dollars down and a salary of $50,000 a year, the Albanians decided upon a man who would need no salary, and proffered the place to William B. Leeds, inheritor of the tinplate millions and husband of Princess Xenia of Greece. Mr. Leeds, however, declared the king business too "stupid," he having had opportunity to observe it at close quarters. He turned the job down and even treated it with contempt, saying that if he ever became a king it would be of a better country than Albania.

Many others from various countries have been offered the Albanian throne, but all have turned away. The Albanians are altogether too mercurial. They are what might he called flighty and they are as fierce as they are changeable. When they grow tired of a thing they get rid of it and their prospective kings evidently fear not only for their tenure of office, but also for their tenure of life. So the crown goes a begging.

THE FRENCH DOMESTIC DEBT.

France faces payment of hige debts this year—not the American debts which she has refused to consider for a while, but the debts of her own people. The unspoken threat of the French bondholders is actually more serious to treasury officials at Paris than would be a note of real indignation in a message from the United States government on the same question.

The unspoken threat in France is of a panic. If any hesitation, any faltering over the payment of cash is seen, the franc will start for the depths of the mark and the whole country be thrown ing a panic that might compare with nothing other than conditions in Germany a few months ago.

The franc is now stabilized, but only at the expense of drastic measures against inflation. Courts have ruled that not more than 41,000,000,000 francs can be in circulation, and that limit has already been nearly reached. Payments on the national defense bonds cannot be made by paper, for the government is unable to issue any. They cannot be made in gold, for the government has little. There is only one recourse—payment by check.

That sounds simple here, but in France it means a revision of the financial system. Even the largest commercial houses in Paris are often unwilling to take checks, or positively refuse to do so. The problem of the government, then, is to bring small investors and wage earners all over the country to the casual acceptance of the check system. A start has been made by requiring most officials to accept their wages in checks. The rest will follow naturally, it is hoped.

England overcame a financial panic in 1844 by the introduction of the check system. It is strange that France has not hit on so simple an expedient sooner.

More Truth Than Poetry

This is an age of unrest,
The pace is tremendously fast;
It's hurry all day, for pleasure or pay,
Contentment's a thing of the past;
Few people are willing to wait
For the profit that effort may bring;
It's hustle and zipp,
Give patience the slip,
Remember that speed is the thing.

This is no time to sit down
In a corner where silence prevails;
Make a lot of loud noise, hit it up with the boys
On the crowded and slippery trails!
Let the old and the wary be scorned,
Forget their unwelcome advice;
Be up on your toes,
With no time for repose,
Make haste, though your health be the price.

This is no time for the lean,
Pale student whose forehead is tall.
Leave books on the shelf; give account of yourself
Where the slow are soon pressed to the wall.
Make Hurry and Hustle your creed,
Let Speed be the god that you serve;
Step hard on the gas,
And leave smoke where you pass;
Rip through on the edge of your nerve.

This is the age of unrest,
"Action's" the word that we hear;
With pleasure we lift our hats to the swift,
And be damned to the man in the rear!
We have turned from the ways of the past,
It's hasten, at work or at play,
Geared always in high,
With a roar we go by,
And I'm glad to be living today.

Sick Headache.

Sick headache is comparable to seasickness because it makes one wish one were dead. The pain is usually terrific and is accompanied with constant vomiting and retching.

Sick hearache or "migraine" is a disease that manifests itself in paroxgyms,. The frequency of these attacks varies, but two a month is usually the limit.

The cause of this condition has been sought for many years and careful study has laid the cause at the door of heredity and faulty living.

In nearly 100 per cent of the these cases a family tendency is present It is usually traced back to the mother or father and even to the grandparents. In large families that have sick headaches, usually every member of that family has these attacks. It chooses not only the white race, but every race. It harasses the rich as well as the poor, and money can do little to alleviate it.

Women are more often affected with this condition than are men. Perhaps this isbest explained by the more pronounced nervous tendencies among women. At the time of the menopause, the attacks seem to become aggravated, and occur even in young girlhood when menstral disturbances are present.

Some medical men claim that migraine is due to various foci of infection, and this assumption is many times correct. The usual focus is in the teeth, tonsils, eyes, gall bladder and the generative organs. Many times the sicknesses clear up upon removal of these foci.

The symptoms of "migraine" are well known. It occurs as a severe headache, usually on one side of the head. The pain is sharp, penetrating, and boring in character. It usually spreads from a single spot and involves the whole side of the head It may pass into the neck and even into the arm of the affected side. Nausea and vomiting are usually present and after vomiting the pain tends to subside. During the attack the patient is unable to raise his head from the pillow. The slightest noise aggravates the condition.

The severe forms of this disease lasts for about three days. The disease recurs for many years, but usually disappears in women after the fiftieth year, and after fifty-five in men.

Usually the person is aware of the causes that bring on the attack. The avoidance of excitement, regularity of meals and a moderate diet may stave off the attack. The removal of all possible foci of infection may end the trouble. Always have the eyes examined for possible refractory errors.

Here again the rule of the old book agent is invaluable. He lives on and on by continually living up to his rule for health, "Keep your head cool, your feet warm, your conscience clear and your bowels open."

Questions and Answers

Questions on health topics may be addressed to Dr. Perry, in care of this newspaper.

C. M. Y.—Last winter I had a wart on my hand. Now almost the whole back of my hand is covered with them. What causes warts and what will cure them?

Answer—Warts are due to a microscopic parasite which is transmitted from person to person, or from one area of the body to another. Get some nitric acid from the druggist and apply very carefully with a toothpick and a tuft of cotton. It is highly corrosive, so have some baking soda handy as an antidote in case you accidentally drop some in the wrong place.

Questions and Answers.

Susan—I have been very nervous for some time. My stomach and bowels are very bad and I have gas on my stomach all the time, which causes my heart to palpitate. Can you tell me what to do for it? Also, about two days after washing my hair, which I do twice a week, it becomes oily again. It is falling badly and I have some dandruff.

Answer—Your condition is one that requires the attention of a physician. Very likely you have a gastritis that can only be cured by a suitable diet and rest. A complete analysis of the stomach contents should be made and a careful physical examination will undoubtedly reveal the exact cause of your condition.

The only relief that you will get from the head condition is to be continual head washes. Use plain tincture of green soap and wash your hair every other day for two weeks, and then at weekly intervals.

Mrs. B.—I am going to have a baby and desire a boy very much. Is there anything I can do to make me have one? I have heard of such things.

Answer—It is impossible for you to determine by any prenatal influence the sex of your unborn child.

E. S. C.—Will medical treatments ever cure an over-secretive thyroid gland, or is cutting necessary.

Answer—Surgery should be the last resort in simple thyroid enlargement. These cases usually respond to medical treatment. If the condition is one of toxic thyroid, the surgical removal is much to be preferred. Usually, goiter patients are given medical treatment prior to any attempt to operate.

J. R. J.—About a year ago I was rejected from an insurance company because of high blood pressure. Small black spots appear at times before my eyes. I am 21 years old, weigh 155 pounds, and am 6 feet tall. My heart action quickens when I do any great exertion and some time passes before it reaches normal again. When I am quiet, my heart beats 75 times a minute. I do not know how this condition came about unless because of overwork.

Answer—If you have been rejected by life insurance companies because of a bad heart, you should use every means to determine the exact condition and abide by the instructions given by your doctor. From symptoms that you describe, I feel that you have an endocarditis with a probable change in the heart muscle. If this condition is treated early, a complete change is quite possible. See your doctor.

Mrs. C. H. E.—Through The Lincoln Star I learn that you will consider questions on health topics, and I am very much alarmed about some ear trouble I am having. For several months past I have been bothered with an itching. It seems to be inward, and now has developed a slight pain. It is growing worse.

Answer—You should take no chances with any ear condition. See your doctor, who can easily tell you whether the process is a severe one. It is highly probable that you have an eczematous condition of the outer ear. Do not aggravate the condition by scratching and use water and soap as little as possible. A good phenol ointment will stop the itching.

Reader—Every spring almost I have a sort of run-down, weak feeling, accompanied by loss of appetite. I am considerably under weight and am a girl in the early thirties. Would cod liver oil benefit me, that is, help me put on weight? Would it affect the stomach in any way? I would hesitate to take it if it would, as I have had an operation for an ulcerous stomach condition several years ago.

Answer—The use of cod liver oil will not be harmful to your stomach condition. It is indeed a valuable agent in supplying deficient food elements and usually will aid in gaining weight.

Size of The House.

(Beatrice Sun.)

A motion the effect of which would have been to reduce the number of members of the national house of representatives was killed on a point of order the other day. Members of Congress fear any agitation of this question because they do not wish to diminish their chances of election. They all know that the size of the house is too great to permit it to function efficiently, but they dislike to reduce its size.

Considering the population of the country, there are not too many representatives in Washington, but the body is unwieldly and cumbersome.

It would be cheering news to learn that the national house members are becoming conscious of the inefficiency of their organization for that will cause them to realize the limitations to the legislative field they can cover. They have undertaken to regulate too many things, with the result tht the country is overrun with government agents.

Rejection of the child labor amendment by the legislatures of a sufficient number of states to cause its defeat has the country's approval. Congress passed the amendment probably under the impression that somebody wanted it, but the country approves the refusal to ratify.

Restriction of the field of operations of the national house is of greater importance to the country than reduction of the number of its members. When Congress can learn that there is a desire on the part of the country for less federal legislation, progress will have been made. Members who regard themselves as competitors of state legislatures mistake the purpose of the national house.

HARBIN, Manchuria—The Chinese authorities have dismissed fifty "white" Russian heretofore engaged as police. This action is acusing much apprehension.

SULPHUR CLEARS SKIN RIGHT UP

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Advertisement.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT NOW INDORSES KARNAK

"There's Nothing Too Good I Can Say For This Wonderful Medicine" Says Prominent Council Bluffs Man.

COULDN'T FIND ANY RELIEF ELSEWHERE

Took Right Hold Of His Case Overcome Troubles Just Like It Was Made Especially For Him.

All over Nebraska now, men and women alike are reporting the most gratifying relief from their sufferings as the famous medicine has been given time to produce its remarkable effect in building up health, strength and energy.

Many prominent men have come forward and unhesitatingly placed their stamp of approval upon Karnak. They have tested the treatment for themselves and tell the results of their experience for the benefit of the community.

Among such men is L. M. Bedesin, the well known public accountant of Council Bluffs, residing at 224 N. 8th St., who declares: "I don't know of any better way I can help others who are suffering like I did than by inducing them to take Karnak.

"My case was one of long standing," continued Mr. Bedesin, "and I spent considerable money trying to get relief. My stomach gave me no end of trouble and, for years, I suffered day and night from gas bloating, billousness, headaches and weak, dizzy spells.

"There would be sharp pains in my stomach and I often wondered if I didn't have appendicitis. With my system in such a disordered condition it was only natural that I should become weak and run-down and feel badly all the time.

Well, sir, although all other medicines and treatments had failed to help me, Karnak just took right hold of my case like it was made especially for my troubles. In fact it has helped me so wonderfully in the short time I have been taking it that I don't hesitate to recommend it to anyone. There is nothing too good I could say for this remarkable medicine after the way it has restored my health.

"I will gladly verify this statement to anybody and all those who are acquainted with me know that I wouldn't say these things if they were not true."

Try Karnak yourself! And if the first two bottles do not benefit you your money will be returned. Also remember that Karnak Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Karnak Treatment, especially if constipated.

Karnak is sold in Lincoln exclusively by the Harley Drug Co., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Advertisement.

Hoppe Out of Picture as Champion at Balk-Line

LOSES HIS CROWN AS CUE CHAMPION

Willie Hoppe Out of Running In Contest for Balk-Line Title.

Jake Schaefer Wins Fourth Game; Takes the Lead In Tournament.

YOUNG JAKE STANDS ALONE. Young Jake Schaefer, with two shutout victories to his credit in world's championship 18.2 balk-line tournament, is the only player to boast such a record. When he defeated Erich Hagenlacher last Thursday night in Chicago, 400 to 0, in one inning, it was his second such victory. In the 1921 tournament in Chicago he defeated Welker Cochran 400 to 0 in two innings, making 82 in the first and an unfinished run of 318 in the second. In the 1921 tournament, he also beat Willie Hoppe, 400 to 26 in six innings. Schaefer's worst beating in a title match was at the hands of Cochran in 1923, when he succumbed, 500 to 54. But his performance last Thursday night is certain to go in billiard annals as the most spectacular achievement in history. To run out a game from the spot is the ambition of every billiardist. Young Jake is the only one who has ever accomplished that feat in balk-line tournament competition.

HOW THEY STAND.

	W	L	Gd.	Ave.
Schaefer	4	0	59	7-27
Hagenlacher	3	1	20	40-58
Horemans	3	1	43	28-33
Hoppe	2	2	27	1-42
Cochran	1	4	28	2-41
Suzuki	0	5	15	3-62

CHICAGO, March 3.—Young Jake Schaefer, who in 1921 tore the 18.2 balk-line billiards crown from the brow of the veteran Willie Hoppe, has the best chance of the six competitors, including Hoppe, to take the title in the international tournament here.

The veteran Hoppe, present champion, relaxed his grasp on his honors last night when he was beaten by Edouard Horemans, Belgian champion, 400 to 36, in seven innings. It was his second defeat, he also having succumbed to Erich Hagenlacher.

Schaefer advanced his title claim in the earlier contest by making K. Suzuki, the Japanese, the victim of his fourth victory, 400 to 175, in 11 innings.

Jake Plays Hoppe Tonight.

Young Jake and Hoppe meet tonight. If Schaefer wins the title is his. If he loses he will be tied for the title with the winner of the Horemans-Hagenlacher match of the afternoon.

There were reports current today that Hoppe's poor showing in the present tournament signalized his withdrawal from the 18.2 balk-line lists and his entry to the three-cushion field, in which he recently defeated Bob Cannefax, champion. His return match with Cannefax, it has been announced, has been postponed from March 16 to some time in April to avoid conflict with the schedule of the three-cushion league.

Appleby Champion Amateur.

NEW YORK, March 3—Francis S. Appleby of New York holds the 18.2 national amateur balk-line championship as a result of his victory over John A. Clinton, jr., of Pittsburgh, in the play-off of the tie for first place that ended the annual tournament. The score was 300 to 289. Appleby succeeds his brother, Edgar, who has held the title since 1922.

DOES HIS STUFF IN IDAHO RING

Ted Gartin Hangs Kayo On Pocatello Battler In First Round.

POTATELLO, Ida, March 3—Teddy Gartin of Lincoln, Neb., Rocky Mountain states welterweight champion, made short work of Virgil Sparks of Pocatello, knocking him out in the first round of their scheduled twelve-round main event here last night.

The bout had gone but a minute and a half when Gartin clipped Sparks on the chin and the Pocatello lad went to the canvas for the count of nine. A few seconds later, Gartin sent over a terrific left to the head and Sparks went out.

Kid Murray of Omaha, and Jimmy Reagan of Portland, Ore., fought four fast rounds to a draw in the semi-windup.

Denton Hi Closes Season With Win

DENTON, Neb., March 3.—Denton high closed the basketball season here last night by defeating Walton in the final game of the schedule, 20 to 11. The Denton girls won over the Walton girls, 23 to 18.

Denton has won eight games and lost six this season, scoring 190 points as compared with 146 points scored by opponents. Denton will play in class D at the Fremont tournament.

Crete High Team Has Class In Cage Sport.

Possessed of an all-victorious record for the season, Crete high school's basketeers will enter the district six tournament at Fremont next Friday a pronounced favorite over their rivals—Lincoln, Fremont and University Place. Crete is paired with University Place in the first round games in class A. Captain Kersenbrock, star tosser of the Crete squad, undoubtedly is the tallest high school basketball player in Nebraska. He measures 6 feet, 10 inches. His shooting of baskets has been one of the main factors in Crete's undefeated season. In one game, Kersenbrock shot 22 baskets and one free throw, scoring all the points made by his team.

WINNER PICKING RISKY BUSINESS

"Dope" On High Cage Teams Means Little When Final Scores Made Up.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Were it not for the fact that high school basketball teams in tournament competition show a particular fancy to 'upsetting the dope, it might be fairly easy to sit down and figure out the class A finalists in the sixteen districts of interscholastice cage competition, scheduled for this week in the Cornhusker commonwealth.

Teams competing in the district cagefests this year will have a double aim. Their immediate objective will be land in the class finals and thus insure their entrance in the state tournament at Lincoln next 'be the district championship, which carries along with it a trophy cup emblematic of sectional superiority.

Flaws In District System.

The present system of tourney play does not necessarily insure that the two best teams in each district will journey to Lincoln, for in several sections the fate of the draw has placed a pair of leading contenders in the same bracket, with the certainty that one will be eliminated before the final round is reached.

The four class A teams in district one are Randolph Walthill, Hartington and Wayne. Of the pair, Randolph appears a heavy favorite to cop the tourney, with Wayne as the other finalist. Randolph met its first defeat at the hands of a Nebraska team last week. The Cedar county cagers bowed to West Point in a game which went three extra periods. The other three teams would hardly appear on paper to be in a class with the Randolph five.

Norfolk and West Point.

Norfolk and West Point are heavy favorites to go through to the finals in district two, with Norfolk, a more experienced quintet, being picked to win district honors. West Point, however, has a victory over Clarkson to its credit and has also won a 14-12 decision over Norfolk, but Coach Thomas's five has just begun to hit its stride.

Omaha Tech is a heavy favorite in district three, although defeated by Omaha Central, a team which it meets in the first game of the tournament. The Bookkeepers will miss Swartz, guard now in training with the Omaha Burchoods, but apparently have enough scoring strength to offset any temporary lapse of defensive ability. South would seem to have a slight edge over Creighton Prep, 1924 interscholastic champion, although both teams have been slumping lately.

Nebraska City Favorite.

In the dope book, Nebraska City appears head and shoulders above the class A teams in district four. A majority of the district four teams seem to have done some neat side-stepping in their scramble to get into the class B fold. The Syracuse-Dunbar game in the lower bracket would appear a toss-up, with Dunbar, in view of its 1924 tourney showing, seeming to hold a slight margin of advantage.

Beatrice and Hebron look like the pick of the district five field. Beatrice stock has spurted upward since Don Worley returned to the lineup. Hebron has lost but one game—a warm contest at Geneva. The Hebron tossers evened the score when the return game was played at Hebron.

Lincoln and Crete.

Anything may happen in the district six cagefest at Fremont. Lincoln and Crete will lead as tourney favorites, the capital city five having defeated Fremont and the Saline champions having a victory over University Place.

District seven promises some heated competition in the class A division. Benedict would seem favored to win the top bracket of the class A pairings York and Geneva are in line to fight it out in the lower half of the draw. The two are scheduled to meet in the first round, with York the favorite, using Benedict as a basis for comparative scores. Benedict defeated Geneva Saturday night and York has lifted the Benedict scalp twice this season.

Hastings and Holdrege are the favorites in district eight, with Hastings seeming to hold a slight advantage by the season's record. Sutton Clay county champion, promises tough opposition for the Hastings five while Franklin, Hildreth and Clay Center stand in the way of Holdrege.

The world's bicycle record for the mile is 58 seconds, made by George Kramer, paced by an automobile.

Fight Fans Boo Verdict To Bat Over York Boy

(Associated Press.)

OMAHA, March 3.—Upsetting the predictions of all "dopesters," Mike Dale, Grand Island welterweight, last night knocked out Royal Coffman of Council Bluffs, Ia., in the sixth round of a scheduled eight-round bout with a short right jab that caught the Iowan flush on the jaw, followed by a left to the stomach just as the loser was going down for the count of ten.

The bout was even until the fifth round, when Dale started showering Coffman with rights and lefts. In the sixth Coffman came back strong and was beating Dale until they went into a clinch just preceding the fatal right smash and the left swing to the abdomen.

The bout was preliminary to the ten round Strayer-Evans match, the principal event on the Elks club boxing card, in which Battling Strayer of Lincoln was given the decision over "Rusty" Evans of York. This decision was booed by ringside fans.

Jack Higgins of Omaha scored a technical knockout in the third round of his four-round preliminary with Roy Beecher of Lincoln.

George Barna of Omaha won on points from Frank Petiz of Bassett in a six-round match. This decision also was booed by the fans.

Tells Different Story.

Harry Reed of Lincoln gives another version of the Strayer-Evans bout In a wire to the Star, Harry asserts that "Bat" won eight of the ten rounds and that the decision by the referee was approved by the spectators. Reed's message follows:

"OMAHA, Neb., March 3.—Battling Strayer, Lincoln lightweight, again is champion of Nebraska by beating Rusty Evans of York in a slashing ten-round main event on the Elk's fight card last night Strayer won eight out of the ten rounds. His aggressiveness and two-fisted attack had Evans backing up in practically every round. The decision was well received by a packed house."

FOOTBALL STICKS TO AERIAL STYLE

Rules Committee Frowns On Suggestion to Rescind Forward Pass.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Recommendations for a number of important changes in the football playing code, as framed by college coaches and officials, will be acted upon when the football rules committee holds its annual meeting here March 13 and 14. At the same time no radical shifts are likely to develop at the meeting, called by E. K. Hall, chairman of the committee.

Agitation to alter the rules governing the forward pass, which served as a lively mid-winter topic, appears to have subsided and the national rule makers are not expected to change the aerial game or any of its features.

Four Changes Considered.

Four changes which have been urged by officials and coaches include: Abolition of giving first down on offside penalty unless penalty gives offensive team ball beyond point to be gained; restoration of kickoff to kickers' 40-yard line, instead of midfield, with permission to use tee of not more than four inches in height; fixing responsibility for watching roughness against kicker upon head linesman, instead of referee; and abolition of giving first down on blocked kick behind line of scrimmage if recovered by kickers' side, unless ball is recovered at or beyond point to be gained.

Charles Gagnon of Escanaba, Mich., is said to be the oldest fancy skater in the world. He is 73 years old.

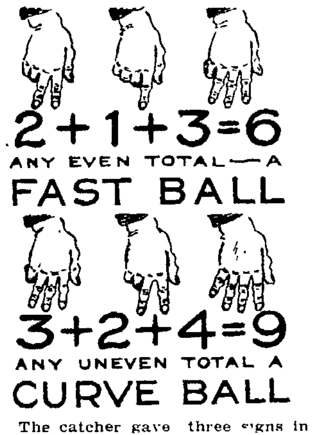
Gowdy Baffled Athletics With These Signals

BY AL DEMAREE.

(Former Pitcher, N. Y. Giants.)

Probably the first set of "combination" signs ever used by a catcher, were those shown below, originated by George Stallings, Pat Moran, Johnny Evers and Hank Gowdy for the 1914 world series to cross the Athletic base runners who were tipping catchers' signs to the hitter from second base.



The catcher gave three signs in sucession; the pitcher simply added up the total number of fingers shown. Even totals were fast balls and odd totals curve balls. The same number of fingers shown three times meant a waste ball.

There were variations of this sign, one of these being that the middle sign alone counted, the first and third being ignored by the pitcher. (Copyright, 1925, Associated Editors, Inc.)

COMES TO GRIPS WITH PROBLEM

New York Commission Must Speak Its Piece To Heavyweights.

Gotham Czars Up Stump In Dealing With Dempsey And Challengers.

BY LARRY SMITS

NEW YORK, March 3. Now that Jack Dempsey has made it known that, although a bridegroom, he is still willing to fight in public, the determination of where and with whom rests with the New York state athletic commission. The question will be taken up at the commission's meeting this afternoon and the critics of fisticuffs should have an answer before night to the question which has kept them palpitating for several months.

Both Tom Gibbons of St. Paul and Harry Wills of the waterfront and Harlem are eager to swap socks with the champion and it will rest with the commission whether both or one and which one will have the chance.

Jack Ready for Business.

Jack, who has been a home body more than a month now, has said he is willing to fight twice before fall. If the question is decided in the order that challenges have been received, the brunet will have the first chance to be slapped by the champion. Paddy Mullins, one of whose favorite habits is posting challenges to Dempsey, had his declaration, backed by a $2,500 forfeit, posted before Eddie Kane spoke up for Gibbons.

Dempsey said he would prefer to meet Gibbons first. He declared his opinion that Gibbons was the better fighter, a belief shared by many of the ring-smart customers who have seen Tom and Harry in their most competent appearances.

Commish Must Crack Nut.

The most weighty problem before the wise men of the commission is whether Gibbons and Wills should meet in an elimination match before either has a crack at Dempsey.

This would satisfy the customers but would leave the champion with but one of the two matches he wants before fall.

Tex Rickard, in all probability, would stage the title battle. His equanimity has been no more disturbed by the thought that some one else might get it than by the champion's assertion that his wedding didn't end his fight career.

Second Round of Tourney.

NEW YORK, March 3.—The boxing commission was expected today to make the draw for the next round of the lightweight elimination tournament.

The second round is scheduled for Madison Square Garden, March 9, and the following fighters will participate: Tommy O'Brien, Milwaukee; Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo; Charley O'Connell, Cleveland; Benny Valgar, New York; Sol Seeman, Brooklyn; and Basil Galiano, New Orleans.

Hoppe Out of Picture as Champion at Balk-Line

LOSES HIS CROWN AS CUE CHAMPION

Willie Hoppe Out of Running In Contest for Balk-Line Title.

Jake Schaefer Wins Fourth Game; Takes the Lead In Tournament.

YOUNG JAKE STANDS ALONE.

Young Jake Schaefer, with two shutout victories to his credit in world's championship 18.2 balk-line tournament, is the only player to boast such a record. When he defeated Erich Hagenlacher last Thursday night in Chicago, 400 to 0, in one inning, it was his second such victory. In the 1921 tournament in Chicago he defeated Welker Cochran 400 to 0 in two innings, making 82 in the first and an unfinished run of 318 in the second. In the 1921 tournament, he also beat Willie Hoppe, 400 to 26 in six innings. Schaefer's worst beating in a title match was at the hands of Cochran in 1923, when he succumbed, 500 to 54. But his performance last Thursday night is certain to go in billiard annals as the most spectacular achievement in history. To run out a game from the spot is the ambition of every billiardist. Young Jake is the only one who has ever accomplished that feat in balk-line tournament competition.

HOW THEY STAND.

	W.	L.	Gd.	Ave.
Schaefer	4	0	59	7-27
Hagenlacher	3	1	20	40-58
Horemans	3	1	43	28-33
Hoppe	2	2	27	1-42
Cochran	1	4	28	2-41
Suzuki	0	5	15	3-62

CHICAGO, March 3.—Young Jake Schaefer, who in 1921 tore the 18.2 balk-line billiards crown from the brow of the veteran Willie Hoppe, has the best chance of the six competitors, including Hoppe, to take the title in the international tournament here.

The veteran Hoppe, present champion, relaxed his grasp on his honors last night when he was beaten by Edouard Horemans, Belgian champion, 400 to 36, in seven innings. It was his second defeat, he also having succumbed to Erich Hagenlacher.

Schaefer advanced his title claim in the earlier contest by making K. Suzuki, the Japanese, the victim of his fourth victory, 400 to 175, in 14 innings.

Jake Plays Hoppe Tonight.

Young Jake and Hoppe meet tonight. If Schaefer wins the title is his. If he loses he will be tied for the title with the winner of the Horemans-Hagenlacher match of the afternoon.

There were reports current today that Hoppe's poor showing in the present tournament signalized his withdrawal from the 18.2 balk-line lists and his entry to the three-cushion field, in which he recently defeated Bob Cannefax, champion. His return match with Cannefax, it has been announced, has been postponed from March 16 to some time in April to avoid conflict with the schedule of the three-cushion league.

Appleby Champion Amateur.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Francis S. Appleby of New York holds the 18.2 national amateur balk-line championship as a result of his victory over John A. Clinton, jr., of Pittsburgh, in the play-off of the tie for first place that ended the annual tournament. The score was 300 to 289. Appleby succeeds his brother, Edgar, who has held the title since 1922.

Ted Gartin Hangs Kayo On Pocatello Battler In First Round.

POTATELLO, Ida., March 3.—Teddy Gartin of Lincoln, Neb., Rocky Mountain states welterweight champion, made short work of Virgil Sparks of Pocatello, knocking him out in the first round of their scheduled twelve-round main event here last night.

The bout had gone but a minute and a half when Gartin clipped Sparks on the chin and the Pocatello lad went to the canvas for the count of nine. A few seconds later, Gartin sent over a terrific left to the head and Sparks went out.

Kid Murray of Omaha, and Jimmy Reagan of Portland, Ore., fought four fast rounds to a draw in the semi-windup.

Denton Hi Closes Season With Win

DENTON, Neb., March 3.—Denton high closed the basketball season here last night by defeating Walton in the final game of the schedule, 20 to 11. The Denton girls won over the Walton girls, 23 to 18.

Denton has won eight games and lost six this season, scoring 190 points as compared with 146 points scored by opponents. Denton will play in class D at the Fremont tournament.

Crete High Team Has Class In Cage Sport.

Possessed of an all-victorious record for the season, Crete high school's basketeers will enter the district six tournament at Fremont next Friday a pronounced favorite over their rivals—Lincoln, Fremont and University Place. Crete is paired with University Place in the first round games in class A. Captain Kersenbrock, star tosser of the Crete squad, undoubtedly is the tallest high school basketball player in Nebraska. He measures 6 feet, 10 inches. His shooting of baskets has been one of the main factors in Crete's undefeated season. In one game, Kersenbrock shot 22 baskets and one free throw, scoring all the points made by his team.

WINNER PICKING RISKY BUSINESS

"Dope" On High Cage Teams Means Little When Final Scores Made Up.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Were it not for the fact that high school basketball teams in tournament competition show a particular fancy to upsetting the dope, it might be fairly easy to sit down and figure out the class A finalists in the sixteen districts of interscholastice cage competition, scheduled for this week in the Cornhusker commonwealth.

Teams competing in the district cagefests this year will have a double aim. Their immediate objective will be land in the class finals and thus insure their entrance in the state tournament at Lincoln next be the district championship, which carries along with it a trophy cup emblematic of sectional superiority.

Flaws In District System.

The present system of tourney play does not necessarily insure that the two best teams in each district will journey to Lincoln, for in several sections the fate of the draw has placed a pair of leading contenders in the same bracket, with the certainty that one will be eliminated before the final round is reached.

The four class A teams in district one are Randolph Walthill, Hartington and Wayne. Of the pair, Randolph appears a heavy favorite to cop the tourney, with Wayne as the other finalist. Randolph met its first defeat at the hands of a Nebraska team last week. The Cedar county cagers bowed to West Point in a game which went three extra periods. The other three teams would hardly appear on paper to be in a class with the Randolph five.

Norfolk and West Point.

Norfolk and West Point are heavy favorites to go through to the finals in district two, with Norfolk, a more experienced quintet, being picked to win district honors. West Point, however, has a victory over Clarkson to its credit and has also won a 14-12 decision over Norfolk, but Coach Thomas's five has just begun to hit its stride.

Omaha Tech is a heavy favorite in district three, although defeated by Omaha Central, a team which it meets in the first game of the tournament. The Bookkeepers will miss Swartz, guard now in training with the Omaha Burchrods, but apparently have enough scoring strength to offset any temporary lapse of defensive ability. South would seem to have a slight edge over Creighton Prep, 1924 interscholastic champion, although both teams have been slumping lately.

Nebraska City Favorite.

In the dope book, Nebraska City appears head and shoulders above the class A teams in district four. A majority of the district four teams seem to have done some neat side-stepping in their scramble to get into the class B fold. The Syracuse-Dunbar game in the lower bracket would appear a toss-up, with Dunbar, in view of its 1924 tourney showing, seeming to hold a slight margin of advantage.

Beatrice and Hebron look like the pick of the district five field. Beatrice stock has spurted upward since Don Worley returned to the lineup. Hebron has lost but one game—a warm contest at Geneva. The Hebron tossers evened the score when the return game was ylayed at Hebron.

Lincoln and Crete.

Anything may happen in the district six cagefest at Fremont. Lincoln and Crete will lead as tourney favorites, the capital city five having defeated Fremont and the Saline champions having a victory over University Place.

District seven promises some heated competition in the class A division. Benedict would seem favored to win the top bracket of the class A pairings. York and Geneva are in line to fight it out in the lower half of the draw. The two are scheduled to meet in the first round, with York the favorite, using Benedict as a basis for comparative scores. Benedict defeated Geneva Saturday night and York has lifted the Benedict scalp twice this season.

Hastings and Holdrege are the favorites in district eight, with Hastings seeming to hold a slight advantage by the season's record. Sutton, Clay county champion, promises tough opposition for the Hastings five, while Franklin, Hildreth and Clay Center stand in the way of Holdrege.

The world's bicycle record for the mile is 58 seconds, made by George Kramer, paced by an automobile.

Fight Fans Boo Verdict To Bat Over York Boy

(Associated Press.)

OMAHA, March 3.—Upsetting the predictions of all "dopesters," Mike Dale, Grand Island welterweight, last night knocked out Royal Coffman of Council Bluffs, Ia., in the sixth round of a scheduled eight-round bout with a short right jab that caught the Iowan flush on the jaw, followed by a left to the stomach just as the loser was going down for the count of ten.

The bout was even until the fifth round, when Dale started showering Coffman with rights and lefts. In the sixth Coffman came back strong and was beating Dale until they went into a clinch just preceding the fatal right smash and the left swing to the abdomen.

The bout was preliminary to the ten round Strayer-Evans match, the principal event on the Elks club boxing card, in which Battling Strayer of Lincoln was given the decision over "Rusty" Evans of York. This decision was booed by ringside fans.

Jack Higgins of Omaha scored a technical knockout in the third round of his four-round preliminary with Roy Beecher of Lincoln.

George Barna of Omaha won on points from Frank Petiz of Bassett in a six-round match. This decision also was booed by the fans.

Tells Different Story.

Harry Reed of Lincoln gives another version of the Strayer-Evans bout. In a wire to the Star, Harry asserts that "Bat" won eight of the ten rounds and that the decision by the referee was approved by the spectators. Reed's message follows:

"OMAHA, Neb., March 3.—Battling Strayer, Lincoln lightweight, again is champion of Nebraska by beating Rusty Evans of York in a slashing ten-round main event on the Elk's fight card last night. Strayer won eight out of the ten rounds. His aggressiveness and two-fisted attack had Evans backing up in practically every round. The decision was well received by a packed house."

FOOTBALL STICKS TO AERIAL STYLE

Rules Committee Frowns On Suggestion to Rescind Forward Pass.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Recommendations for a number of important changes in the football playing code, as framed by college coaches and officials, will be acted upon when the football rules committee holds its annual meeting here March 13 and 14. At the same time no radical shifts are likely to develop at the meeting, called by E. K. Hall, chairman of the committee.

Agitation to alter the rules governing the forward pass, which served as a lively mid-winter topic, appears to have subsided and the national rule makers are not expected to change the aerial game or any of its features.

Four Changes Considered.

Four changes which have been urged by officials and coaches include: Abolition of giving first down on offside penalty unless penalty gives offensive team ball beyond point to be gained; restoration of kickoff to kickers' 40-yard line, instead of midfield, with permission to use tee of not more than four inches in height; fixing responsibility for watching roughness against kicker upon head linesman, instead of referee; and abolition of giving first down on blocked kick behind line of scrimmage if recovered by kickers' side, unless ball is recovered at or beyond point to be gained.

Charles Gagnon of Escanaba, Mich., is said to be the oldest fancy skater in the world. He is 73 years old.

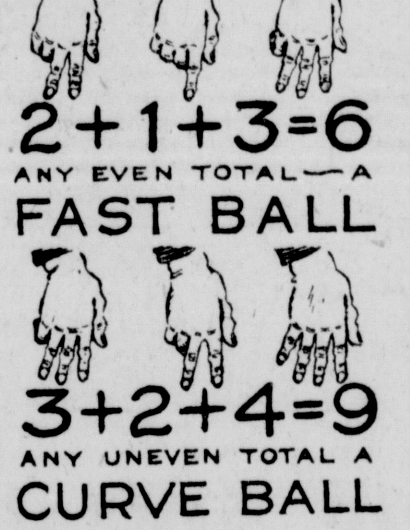
Gowdy Baffled Athletics With These Signals

BY AL DEMAREE.

(Former Pitcher, N. Y. Giants.)

Probably the first set of "combination" signs ever used by a catcher, were those shown below, originated by George Stallings, Pat Moran, Johnny Evers and Hank Gowdy for the 1914 world series to cross the Athletic base runners who were tipping catchers' signs to the hitter from second base.



The catcher gave three signs in sucession; the pitcher simply added up the total number of fingers shown. Even totals were fast balls and odd totals curve balls. The same number of fingers shown three times meant a waste ball.

There were variations of this sign, one of these being that the middle sign alone counted, the first and third being ignored by the pitcher. (Copyright, 1925, Associated Editors, Inc.)

COMES TO GRIPS WITH PROBLEM

New York Commission Must Speak Its Piece To Heavyweights.

Gotham Czars Up Stump In Dealing With Dempsey And Challengers.

BY LARRY SMITS.

NEW YORK, March 3—Now that Jack Dempsey has made it known that, although a bridegroom, he is still willing to fight in public, the determination of where and with whom rests with the New York state athletic commission. The question will be taken up at the commission's meeting this afternoon and the critics of fisticuffs should have an answer before night to the question which has kept them palpitating for several months.

Both Tom Gibbons of St. Paul and Harry Wills of the waterfront and Harlem are eager to swap socks with the champion and it will rest with the commission whether both or one and which one will have the chance.

Jack Ready for Business.

Jack, who has been a home body more than a month now, has said he is willing to fight twice before fall. If the question is decided in rthe order that challenges have been received, the brunet will have the first chance to be slapped by the champion. Paddy Mullins, one of whose favorite habits is posting challenges to Dempsey, had his declaration, backed by a $2,500 forfeit, posted before Eddie Kane spoke up for Gibbons.

Dempsey said he would prefer to meet Gibbons first. He declared his opinion that Gibbons was the better fighter, a belief shared by many of the ring-smart customers who have seen Tom and Harry in their most competent appearances.

Commish Must Crack Nut.

The most weighty problem before the wise men of the commission is whether Gibbons and Wills should meet in an elimination match before either has a crack at Dempsey.

This would satisfy the customers but would leave the champion with but one of the two matches he wants before fall.

Tex Rickard, in all probability, would stage the title battle. His equanimity has been no more disturbed by the thought that some one else might get it than by the champion's assertion that his wedding didn't end his fight career.

Second Round of Tourney.

NEW YORK, March 3.—The boxing commission was expected today to make the draw for the next round of the lightweight elimination tournament.

The second round is scheduled for Madison Square Garden, March 9, and the following fighters will participate: Tommy O'Brien, Milwaukee; Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo; Charley O'Connell, Cleveland; Benny Valgar, New York; Sol Seeman, Brooklyn; and Basil Galiano, New Orleans.

NOT TO GET RID OF RHEUMATISM
When Others Do It So Easily With Trunk's Prescription
Mrs. W. H. Stoddard of Upland, Calif., in a letter says: "Trunk's Prescription for rheumatism is the ONLY thing that knocks the rheumatic pains, and to send four bottles."
Mrs. J. J. Breedlove, White Salmon, Wash., writes: "I used your medicine for rheumatism and it cured me. I have a father-in-law who is suffering from rheumatism and I want to get it for him."
Mrs. John Obelle, 327 W. 3d St., Los Angeles, Calif., writes that "Several years ago my husband was confined to his bed with rheumatism for seven months. In looking over a paper we saw the advertisement of Trunk's Prescription. He used the medicine and the cure was marvelous and permanent. I have recommended it to a number of people and it has helped them all. It is a very valuable medicine."
What these people have done hundreds of others have done, hundreds will do tomorrow, and YOU can be one of them. An amazingly easy treatment for the relief of all forms of rheumatism. If every man and woman who have rheumatism in any form would take Trunk's Prescription there would be but one remedy remaining on the market. Trunk's Prescription stands alone in its good effect and results, so much so that all other remedies would be laid aside as forgotten. No matter how long standing your case may be or the innumerable treatments tried in vain, simply follow this treatment as directed and rheumatism cannot exist in the human body. There are only two instances in which these prescriptions can fail, and that is if you haven't rheumatism, and if you do not read and follow the directions. Trunk's Prescription sells for $1.75 or 3 for only $5.00 at Fenton Drug Co., [illegible] O street.—Advertisement.

Speculators for the advance staged another pre inaugural demonstration in today's market carrying the industrial averages to new record high levels on an increased volume of trading Profit taking and short selling took place at intervals, but offerings were well absorbed Total sales approximated 1 850 000 shares.

GRAIN MARKETS

WHEAT—Unfavorable crop reports from Kansas and Nebraska gave a decided upward tendency to the wheat market today during the early dealings Foreign estimates of important requirements helped also to lift values. Commission house buying was of an aggressive character than readily absorbed the large volume of profit taking sales which developed at times Opening prices 1 to ¼ were followed by something of a reaction and then by additional fresh gains

Subsequently crop damage reports from parts of Texas and Oklahoma led to further upturns in price and so too did drought reports from India The close was firm 2¼ to 3¾c net higher May $1 99¼ to $1 99⅜ and July $1 73⅝ to $1 74

CORN—Corn and oats were strengthened by attention to reduced estimates of farm stocks of corn and by assertions that Corn fed to hogs and cattle was likely to afford good profit After opening at ⅜ to 1c advance May $1 35 to 1 35½ the corn market rose a little further and then reacted somewhat

Later the corn market was responsive to advances in wheat Corn closed unsettled ½ to 1c net higher May $1 35⅜ to $1 35½

OATS—Oats started at ⅛ to ⅝c gain May 54⅜ to 54½ and then held near to the initial range

PROVISIONS were firmer sympathizing with hog values and with corn

DEMONSTRATION FOR CROFOOT BID

Smith Workers Want Big Drygoods House Continued at Omaha.

OMAHA March 3—Several hundred employes of the the defunct M E Smith company wholesale drygoods firm paraded the downtown streets here early this morning distributing handbills setting forth their reasons why they desired the L F Crofoot bid for the company's assets to be accepted at a bidder's hearing in bankruptcy court today

Two bids have been put in for the company One by L F Crofoot and several Omaha business men offers $1 715 000 with the avowed purpose' of keeping the company going as an Omaha concern the other, by the Byrne-Hammer company, Omaha wholesale drygoods firm offers $1 725 000 for the properties but does not set forth any purpose to keep the company in the drygoods field as a separate organization

It is the contention of the workers of the Smith company that should the Crofoot bid be rejected they will be thrown out of work Approximately 550 are employed by the Smith company which is one of the largest wholesale drygoods firms in the middle west

Referee Dunham continued the bidding until 2 o'clock this afternoon after further consideration of the two bids Two additional bids from New York interests were rejected this morning by Referee Dunham who ruled that the bidding entries were closed and now up to the Crofoot and Byrne-Hammer interests

While Mr Loomis recommended the Crofoot bid this morning, the Byrne Hammer bid after having met with certain provisions later on was recommended later by him in preference to that of Crofoot

Definite action on the two bids is now expected during the afternoon

SHEPHERD WINS A CONTINUANCE

Inquest Into Death Of William N. McClintock To Be Resumed March 23.

CHICAGO March 3—Counsel for William D Shepherd today won a continuance until March 23 of the inquest into the death of William N McClintock

The continuance was obtained after a bitter clash between Judge Harry Olson chief justice of the Municipal court and instigator of the investigation and Shepherd's lawyer

Judge Olson had charged that it had been shown Shepherd to be morally guilty and demanded that the machinery of the law get into action

Edwin Hedrick attorney for Shepherd charged Judge Olson's conduct of the interrogation of witnesses had been a shame and disgrace and never before had he seen counsel conduct both sides of a case

Mr Hedrick had asked for a month in which to make investigations in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and St Paul, Minn.

SIMMONS MAY SEEK HEARING

taken first to November 5 and then to November 14 Finally the court heard the appeal on November 23

On February 13 1924 the court unanimously affirmed the conviction and set the new date of May 23 next ensuing for the execution On April 3 it overruled the motion of Simmons attorneys for rehearing Two days afterward it issued a warrant directing the warden of the penitentiary to carry out the death sentence This was the last word of the Nebraska high bench in the case

Meanwhile the state pardon board was twice petitioned to change the punishment to life imprisonment but refused

On the day before the time set for Simmons to die former Governor Bryan granted a reprieve so that his attorneys could present some affidavits based on alleged new evidence to the courts The District court of Lancaster county refused a writ of habeas corpus asked on this showing and another move made in Boyd county to secure a judicial stay of sentence also failed

As a last resort one of Simmons' attorneys went to Washington and filed application in the United States Supreme court for a writ of certiorari This was on June 10 1924 The writ if allowed would enable Simmons to have his case heard before the federal Supreme ocurt But no ruling has ever been made and the matter still hangs fire

Former Governor Bryan followed his first reprieve to Simmons granted on May 22 with another on June 10 and a third on June 18 He issued ten such orders in all while waiting on the United States Supreme court Former Lieutenant Governor Johnson also granted one reprieve while Bryan was out of the state

Since Governor McMullen took office he has granted Simmons three reprieves the last one running to March 10 Presumably he will continue doing so until the supreme court is heard from No reprieve can be for a longer period than 30 days

Each reprieve commands the penitentiary warden to delay the execution until the new date fixed and to carry it out on that date

PARIS March 3—To maintain the control over Germany's armaments which France deems essential to her security permanent surveillance must be established in the neutralized Rhineland zone immediately after evacuation of that area by the occupational troops Paul Boncour declares in an interview published by Le Matin today

M Boncour heads the higher national defense council an investigating committee of which has just formulated an opinion on the problem at the request of Premier Herriot in view of the forthcoming Geneva conference which is to take up the question of control over Germany

When the inter allied control of German armaments became international and the League of Nations became responsible for France's security M Boncour observed the task of the French representative former Premier Briand would be to insure that this international control was not illusory

The task bristled with difficulties There was first of all the famous unanimity rule ' How would it be possible to decree unanimously that Germany was engaged in arming—for there would always be the negative vote of Germany, if as appeared probable she one day had a seat on the league council?

The demilitarized zone will be all that is left to us of the Versailles treaty M Boncour continued It will be tomorrow our sole guarantee We shall therefore ask that the league install their permanent controlling organization in a position to report instantly the least infraction It is at that price alone that we can consent to abandon the Rhine

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Mar. 3.

Speculators for the advance staged another pre-inaugural demonstration in today's market, carrying the industrial averages to new record high levels on an increased volume of trading. Profit taking and short selling took palce at intervals, but offerings were well absorbed. Total sales approximated 1,850,000 shares.

Stock prices continued to forge ahead at the opening of today's market, with trading stimulated by investment buying of influential rail and industrial issues. Oil shares scored further gains on predictions of an early increase in prices and a good demand was noted for equipments and motors. Frisco and American Car and Foundry moved up a point each.

Bullish demonstrations in many issues were accompanied by reports of larger dividend distributions to stockholders of leading industrial corporations. American Can, after opening a half point lower, shot up two points to a new record at 183¼ and a fresh flood of buying orders for U. S. Castiron Pipe lifted that stock 9¼ points to 241. Ludium Steel added six points to yesterday's seven point rise, selling at 48. Among the many issues to sell 1 to 2 points above last night's closing levels were American Locomotive, Mack Trunk General Electric, Goodrich Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Texas Gulf Sulphur and the Pan-American issues ehe latter being aided by talk of a higher dividend for Mexican Petroleum. Heavy buying of Atlantic coast line, which rose 3¼ points, featured trading in the rail group. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

The violence of the advance, coupled with the maintenance of the 4½ per cent renewal rate for call money, led to considerable profit taking around the end of the first hour. U. S. Catiron Pipe fell five points from its top and Ludlum Steel, the recent strength of which has been based on important developments concerning its silcrome steel process, yielded 2½. Previously gains of 3 to 4 points had been recorded by American Car and Foundry, Goodrich Rubber, Mack Truck, General Electric, Delaware and Hudson and Loose Wiles Biscuit. Efforts were made to steady the list around noon by bidding up certain western railroad shares, particularly Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific and Chicago & Northwestern. Trading was in large volume, total sales in the first hour exceeding ½ million shares.

The recognized industrial market leaders took on a burst of strength along in the afternoon after quite a number of stocks had become heavy. The equipments, American Can, Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, Fisher Body, DuPont, United Alloy Steel, Wilson and company, preferred and Worthington Pump were all moved up fast. American Can reached 184½, a new top, American Car and Foundry extended its rise to 6½ and Fisher Body jumped five points. The closing was strong.

GRAIN MARKETS.

WHEAT—Unfavorable crop reports from Kansas and Nebraska gave a decided upward tendency to the wheat market today, during the early dealings. Foreign estimates of important requirements helped also to lift values. Commission house buying was of an aggressive character than readily absorbed the large volume of profit taking sales which developed at times. Opening prices, 1 to 2¼ were followed by something of a reaction and then by additional fresh gains.

Subsequently crop damage reports from parts of Texas and Oklahoma led to further upturns in price and so, too, did drought reports from India. The close was firm, 21-4 to 3¾c net higher; May, $1.99¼ to $1.99⅜ and July, $1.73⅝ to $1.74.

CORN—Corn and oats were strengthened by attention to reduced estimates of farm stocks of corn and by assertions that Corn fed to hogs and cattle was likely to afford good profit. After opening at ⅜ to 1c advance, May $1.35 to 1.35½, the corn market rose a little further and then reacted somewhat.

Later the corn market was responsive to advances in wheat. Corn closed unsettled ½ to 1c net higher; May, $1.35⅜ to $1.85½.

OATS—Oats started at ¼ to ⅝c gain, May 54⅜ to 54½ and then held near to the initial range.

PROVISIONS were firmer, sympathizing with hog values and with corn.

DESTROYER RAMS AIRCRAFT TENDER

Collision Occurs On Way to Mimic Battle Near Point Loma, Calif.

(Associated Press.)

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 3. — War maneuvers, which started Monday when the Pacific fleet steamed forth from San Diego and San Pedro to wage mimic battle against the Atlantic scouting fleet, took a realistic turn at about noon yesterday when the destroyer Robert Smith rammed the aircraft tender carrier Langley. The accident happened about forty miles southwest of Point Loma.

The bow of the Robert Smith was smashed in, a section of the forward rail was torn away and some of the hull plates were badly buckled. The Robert Smith came back to port here. No information regarding the damage sustained by the Langley was received here as the fleet is working under wartime conditions with the radio apparatus sealed until the "battle" starts off the southern coast some time between today and March 10.

As a result of the collision the Robert Smith will be removed from the list of destroyers to make the Hawaiian and Australian cruise.

TAKE TESTIMONY ON SUGAR RATES

Nebraska Towns Claim That They Are Not Being Treated Fairly.

Rates on carload shipments of sugar that "vitally affect" the Lincoln wholesale business were under consideration by Special Examiner F. M. Weaver of the interstate commerce commission Tuesday morning in a hearing at the Federal building.

The case is one brought before the commission by the Nebraska railway commission. It is alleged that freight rates from New Orleans to such points as Norfolk, Superior, Grand Island and Hastings in Nebraska are unjust as related to rates to Omaha, Lincoln, Council Bluffs and Sioux City, as compared with the relation between the rates from the same points to cities in central and eastern Kansas. Another case, alleging a similar injustice in South Dakota rates, is combined with this.

The defendant is the Alexandria & Wichita Railway Co., and other roads named are the Union Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern and Burlington. The Lincoln chamber of commerce, represented by W. S. Whitten, appears as intervenor.

DEMONSTRATION FOR CROFOOT BID

Smith Workers Want Big Drygoods House Continued at Omaha.

OMAHA, March 3.—Several hundred employes of the the defunct M. E. Smith company, wholesale drygoods firm, paraded the downtown streets here early this morning distributing handbills setting forth their reasons why they desired the L. F. Crofoot bid for the company's assets to be accepted at a bidder's hearing in bankruptcy court today.

Two bids have been put in for the company. One by L. F. Crofoot and several Omaha business men, offers $1,715,000 with the avowed purpose of keeping the company going as an Omaha concern; the other, by the Byrne-Hammer company, Omaha, wholesale drygoods firm, offers $1,725,000 for the properties but does not set forth any purpose to keep the company in the drygoods field as a separate organization.

It is the contention of the workers of the Smith company, that should the Crofoot bid be rejected they will be thrown out of work. Approximately 550 are employed by the Smith company which is one of the largest wholesale drygoods firms in the middle west.

Referee Dunham continued the bidding until 2 o'clock this afternoon after further consideration of the two bids. Two additional bids from New York interests were rejected this morning by Referee Dunham, who ruled that the bidding entries were closed and now up to the Crofoot and Byrne-Hammer interests.

While Mr. Loomis recommended the Crofoot bid this morning, the Byrne-Hammer bid, after having met with certain provisions later on, was recommended later by him in preference to that of Crofoot.

Definite action on the two bids is now expected during the afternoon.

COMMITTEE ENDS AIRCRAFT PROBE

House Committee For Second Time Votes To Close Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The house aircraft investigation came to another end Monday with the flow of charges and contradictions that have marked the last weeks of its existence continuing with undiminished vigor to the very close.

Before voting late in the day to end its hearing, the committee heard several witnesses and went further into the disput over charges that Brigadier General Mitchell, assistant army air chief, disobeyed presidential orders in publishing a series of magaine articles on air power.

The decision to close the investigation is the second time that the committee has taken this action. The first came abruptly about ten days ago, when members thought the committee's funds were exhausted. After an audit of its finances, however, the committee decided it had sufficient mony to complete the work it had planned. Before the vote was taken Monday representative Perkins, republican, New Jersey, the committee examiner, announced that practically all of the investigation program had been completed.

SHEPHERD WINS A CONTINUANCE

Inquest Into Death Of William N. McClintock To Be Resumed March 23.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Counsel for William D. Shepherd today won a continuance until March 23 of the inquest into the death of William N. McClintock.

The continuance was obtained after a bitter clash between Judge Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal court and instigator of the investigation, and Shepherd's lawyer.

Judge Olson had charged that it had been shown Shepherd to be "morally guilty" and demanded that the "machinery of the law get into action."

Edwin Hedrick, attorney for Shepherd, charged Judge Olson's conduct of the interrogation of witnesses had been a "shame and disgrace" and never before had he seen "counsel conduct both sides of a case."

Mr. Hedrick had asked for a month in which to make investigations in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and St. Paul, Minn.

taken, first to November 5, and then to November 14. Finally, the court heard the appeal on November 23.

On February 13, 1924, the court unanimously affirmed the conviction and set the new date of May 23, next ensuing, for the execution. On April 3 it overruled the motion of Simmons' attorneys for rehearing. Two days afterward it issued a warrant directing the warden of the penitentiary to carry out the death sentence. This was the last word of the Nebraska high bench in the case.

Meanwhile, the state pardon board was twice petitioned to change the punishment to life imprisonment, but refused.

On the day before the time set for Simmons to die former Governor Bryan granted a reprieve so that his attorneys could present some affidavits, based on alleged new evidence, to the courts. The District court of Lancaster county refused a writ of habeas corpus asked on this showing, and another move made in Boyd county to secure a judicial stay of sentence also failed.

As a last resort, one of Simmons' attorneys went to Washington and filed application in the United States Supreme court for a writ of certiorari. This was on June 10, 1924. The writ, if allowed, would enable Simmons to have his case heard before the federal Supreme ocurt. But no ruling has ever been made, and the matter still hangs fire.

Former Governor Bryan followed his first reprieve to Simmons, granted on May 22, with another on June 10, and a third on June 18. He issued ten such orders in all, while waiting on the United States Supreme court. Former Lieutenant Governor Johnson also granted one reprieve while Bryan was out of the state.

Since Governor McMullen took office he has granted Simmons three reprieves, the last one running to March 10. Presumably, he will continue doing so until the supreme court is heard from. No reprieve can be for a longer period than 30 days.

Each reprieve commands the penitentiary warden to delay the execution until the new date fixed, and to carry it out on that date.

PARIS, March 3.—To maintain the control over Germany's armaments which France deems essential to her security, permanent surveillance must be established in the neutralized Rhineland zone immediately after evacuation of that area by the occupational troops, Paul Boncour declares in an interview published by Le Matin today.

M. Boncour heads the higher national defense council, an investigating committee of which has just formulated an opinion on the problem at the request of Premier Herriot in view of the forthcoming Geneva conference which is to take up the question of control over Germany.

When the inter-allied control of German armaments became international and the League of Nations became "responsible for France's security," M. Boncour observed, the task of the French representative, former Premier Briand, would be to insure that this international control was not illusory.

The task bristled with difficulties. There was, first of all, the famous unanimity rule. How would it be possible to decree unanimously that Germany was engaged in arming—for there would always be the negative vote of Germany, if, as appeared probable, she one day had a seat on the league council?

"The demilitarized zone will be all that is left to us of the Versailles treaty," M. Boncour continued. "It will be tomorrow our sole guarantee. We shall therefore ask that the league install their permanent controlling organization in a position to report instantly the least infraction. It is at that price alone that we can consent to abandon the Rhine."

MRS HODGES DEAD.

DENVER, March 3.—Mrs. Mabel C. Hodges, wife of William V. Hodges, Denver attorney and treasurer of the republican national committee, died suddenl ytoday in her home here.

Prowler Visits Gramlich Home; Frightened Away

A second-story prowler wha gained entrance to the H. J. Gramlich home, 3220 Starr street Monday night by climbing a ladder to an upper window, was frightened away before he had had time to search the house, police reported Tuesday.

A 4-year-old boy sleeping upstairs saw the man, the trepor states, but the burglar fled before a good description could be obtained. Police investigated, but did not find the man in the neighbor hood.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

A rapid rise in temperature has occurred in the Missouri and upper Missippi valleys, attending the eastern movement of a trough of low pressure, now extending from Lake Michigan to New Mexico, and light snow has resulted in Minnesota and North Dakota. The center of high pressure has moved to the southeastern states, causing cold weather in the entire Atlantic and east Gulf regions.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Advice From Experience.

Dear Minerva: I just finished reading the letter written by "Almost Discouraged" and as I have passed through a very similar experience I will suggest a few things that I found very effective.

Try ignoring the things in your husband that you do not like, treating him as if he were a mere friend. Let him think you can live for yourself regardless of him. Go away yourself after one of his all-night adventures telling him carelessly that you are going out. Stay a day or two but do not let him know where either before or after. Shroud your own doings in mystery for a while. When you see him getting ready to go tell him you think you will go also.

Buy yourself nice clothes if it takes every cent you can get hold of. Let him see you intend to go well dressed if you have to leave him. Let him know you are looking into some desirable positions. Take a few months for these experiments and if they do not work give him his choice between you and his bad habits.

Don't let him think you are trying to bring him to time, just go ahead casually as though he were only an acquaintance and had no real interest in your plans. Of course I need not say that you should do nothing questionable yourself; be discreet.

Then too, take up some line of educational improvement — music, some favorite study or a correspondence course along some professional line. It will change your interests.

Hide any show of affections and wait for him to make such demonstrations for a while. You might even seem careless to them.

Many a man, if he really sees himself facing a lost home and wife's affections will wake to the situation. Save the same place for him in your heart he held years ago but hide it from his eyes with a reserve that may seem cold and lacking affection.

Hoping that these or other ways may bring as happy a change in your home as they have in mine is the sincere wish of —ONE WHO TRIED IT.

Human Interest Work.

Dear Minerva: Will you please help me. I have been working in an office for eight years and am getting decidedly tired of the constant atmosphere where the almighty dollars is the end and aim of existence.

I am very anxious to get into some work where I will feel that I am doing something for the betterment of humanity as well as earning an honest living. I have only a business education but am willing to take training, preferably in work among children as I have always loved them. I would also be willing to go to another town if necessary. Could you suggest some line of work and also tell me where I can get information concerning same.—RESTLESS.

A. It probably would be more practical for you to continue earning your money in the manner in which you have been trained, and seek your human interest and philanthropic work outside. There are always classes of girls to be taught, camp fire leaders desired, etc. Connections are made for such work through the church, the Y. W. C. A., and the Camp Fire Girls' officials.

You might be able to secure work in your line in some one of the state homes for children, where you could help in other than your routine business work.

To work directly with children would seem to demand that you secure training either in teaching or nursing. The children in the orthopedic homes are taught crafts as well as regular school work. Those in the Home for Dependant Children are sent to public schools when they are of that age.

Dear Minerva: I want to say to "Almost Discouraged" that to stay with a man like that is senseless. A man like that will never improve. He will in all probablity grow worse. Better leave now before there are more children to take care of. Leave the baby with your mother until you can find work to support baby and self. Almost any kind of work is better than the life you are living now, and I would surely demand alimony enough to keep the baby. If he prefers to go to jail, let him. This will give him a chance to think about his mistakes. But don't go back to him. He will surely come after you. And if you do, demand that he give you a definite amount of money with which to run the home and with which you can be independent.—ONE WHO KNOWS.

Her Freedom

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

Copyright, 1924, by Public Ledger Company.

Dorothy Carey hates the idea of marriage because neither her mother's nor her sister Elaine's has been a success. She determines to maintain her freedom and when she is given a chance at editing the fiction of the Woman's Apparel magazine the first thing she does is to look for a place of her own.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Dinner Party.

At last Dorothy was ensconced in her new home. There had been reproaches on the part of her mother, and a tight-lipped disapproval from Elaine. Somehow Dorothy resented this attitude on the part of Elaine more than she did anything else.

"It isn't right for a girl to live alone," Elaine had said almost patronizingly. It was almost as if from the superior height of her married life she looked down upon her younger sister. It was as though Elaine were in possession of a standing and respectability that Dorothy lacked, and while this amused Dorothy in a sense, it irritated her, too.

Elaine was up and around again. The two little girls, Isabel and Eleanor, had been returned to their home, and Steve was still on his good behavior. He had insisted upon a woman to do the cleaning, and Elaine, with that look of dreams still in her eyes, was rather lovely these days.

"What do you mean?" Dorothy had asked somewhat sharply.

"Just that men are apt to misunderstand and impose upon a girl who lives alone in New York," Elaine had returned. And Dorothy had laughed and changed the subject.

She had a never-failing thrill out of her place. No matter how tired she was, the minute she put her key in the door she felt a wave of utter peace sweep over her. Sometimes she went out to eat, but for the most part she preferred to eat at home. And afterward, on the evenings when she did not feel it her duty to go and see her mother, she would lie on the day bed with the orange-shaded lamp at her back and read until she was sleepy. Or perhaps there would be manuscripts that she had brought home with her, and she would go over these and make notes on a small piece of paper to be ready for her discussion with Harvey Collins on the following day.

She had been ensconced in her new apartment for nearly two weeks when Ruth Sibley returned from her honeymoon and rang Dorothy on the telephone one morning.

"I am having a little dinner party on Friday night," she said eagerly, "just you and Mr. Collins. I am dying to show off my talents. Dean says I'm a wonder."

Dorothy accepted eagerly and looked forward to the evening with a great deal of pleasure. As she stood before her mirror on Friday evening she was more than ordinarily satisfied with her appearance, and when she arrived at the home of the new Mrs. Dean Oliver, her face had lost its usual gravity and was almost radiant.

"Why, Dodo, you look quite changed," said Ruth as she led Dorothy into the bedroom. "You don't ordinarily wear such fluffy things, and you have your hair fixed differently."

Dorothy smiled. She felt strangely exhilarated. And when a moment later she entered the living room, and Harvey Collins rose to greet her, she flashed a gay smile at him, and felt the hot color rush up into her cheeks at the look of quick admiration that leaped suddenly into his eyes.

It was a gay dinner party. There were softly flickering candles on the table and Ruth was so ecstatically happy that she injected a spirit of fun into everything. As for Dorothy, she found herself behaving in a rather extraordinary fashion. Her repartee was provocative, almost flippant, and always as she talked, she was conscious of that look in Harvey Collins' eyes.

It had certainly never been there before, but, after all, that was quite natural. Until tonight they had not met socially, and tonight Harvey Collins was not her employer, but a man who happened to be an interesting dinner companion.

As for Harvey, he felt that he was seeing Dorothy as she was, for the first time since he had known her. He had thought of her as cold, but tonight as he looked again and again into her grayish-green eyes, he thought of her as warm, alluring and entirely feminine.

Tomorrow—Two in a Taxi.

Cables Are Being Stretched for New Traffic Signals

Stretching of the over-head cables from which will be suspended the automatic traffic signals for the police department is under way on O street, and Monday night had been completed to Twelfth street, by men from the city light department. They started at Seventeenth street.

Foreman Henry Troudt, in charge of the work, said today that he hoped to have this part of the work done by the end of the week.

Further progress will be hindered however, he said because of delay in receiving the underground cable. He does not expect this to arrive for at least another month but when it does get here his men are ready to begin work at once and complete the installation of the entire system without further delay.

When installed the traffic signals will be over the center of the street from Ninth to Seventeenth streets.

KENNEDY PLANS FURTHER ACTION

Naval Officer Held In Coast Hospital Undismayed By First Defeat.

NAPA, Cal., March 3.—Appeal to the Federal courts will be made in the case of Lieut. Frank E. Kennedy, U. S. N., who yesterday was denied a writ of habeas corpus seeking his release from the state hospital for the insane, Thomas Lennon, counsel for the naval officer, announced.

Petition for a habeas corpus writ will be filed within the next few days, possibly today, with the United States court, Lennon said adding the "fight had only begun."

Lieutenant Kennedy was committed to the asylum by naval authorities for observation after alleged insubordination and improper conduct on duty during the time his ship was in the Orient. On the contention that the officer had been accused unjustly and committed to the asylum without proper examination, his wife and friends came to his aid.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in the Superior court here which Judge Percy S. King yesterday dissolved on the ground that a State court lacked jurisdiction in such a case. No other matter was argued yesterday except the question of whether the State court had jurisdiction.

Could Not Discern Washout Causing A Fatal Accident

John Chidester, the youth who was driving the car that overturned Sept. 6, 1924, killing Ida Buettgenbach, 19, on a road near Denton, was the first witness to be called to the stand Tuesday by the plaintiff, John Buettgenbach, father of girl, when trial of the $25,150 damage suit against Lancaster county was begun in Judge Mason Wheeler's district court.

The testimony of Chidester and three others, Thomas M. Bundy, Fred Barney and John Enright, was primarily on the condition of the road in which an alleged washout on the site of an old culvert is said to have caused the accident. Witness said he could not see the washout. The car went 100 feet after striking the alleged washout, according to Chidester's story. It then turned over pinning both occupants beneath. Details of the girl's removal to a Lincoln hospital were then given. Chidester stated as his opinion that the girl was dead when extricated.

Details of the road measurements taken the next day, Sunday, and Monday were given, and a picture of the damaged car, and fragments of the broken concrete culvert were introduced as evidence and exhibited.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Advice From Experience.

Dear Minerva: I just finished reading the letter written by "Almost Discouraged" and as I have passed through a very similar experience I will suggest a few things that I found very effective.

Try ignoring the things in your husband that you do not like, treating hi mas if he were a mere friend. Let him think you can live for yourself regardless of him. Go away yourself after one of his all-night adventures telling him carelessly that you are going out. Stay a day or two but do not let him know where either before or after. Shroud your own doings in mystery for a while. When you see him getting ready to go tell him you think you will go also.

Buy yourself nice clothes if it takes every cent you can get hold of. Let him see you intend to go well dressed if you have to leave him Let him know you are looking into some desirable positions. Take a few months for these experiments and if they do not work give him his choice between you and his bad habits.

Don't let him think you are trying to bring him to time, just go ahead casually as though he were only an acquaintance and had no real interest in your plans. Of course I need not say that you should do nothing questionable yourself; be discreet.

Then too, take up some line of educational improvement — music, some favorite study or a correspondence course along some professional line. It will change your interests.

Hide any show of affections and wait for him to make such demonstrations for a while. You might even seem careless to them.

Many a man, if he really sees himself facing a lost home and wife's affections will wake to the situation. Save the same place for him in your heart he held years ago but hide it from his eyes with a reserve that may seem cold and lacking affection.

Hoping that these or other ways may bring as happy a change in your home as they have in mine is the sincere wish of —ONE WHO TRIED IT.

Human Interest Work.

Dear Minerva: Will you please help me. I have been working in an office for eight years and am getting decidedly tired of the constant atmosphere where the almighty dollars is the end and aim of existence.

I am very anxious to get into some work where I will feel that I am doing something for the betterment of humanity as well as earning an honest living. I have only a business education but am willing to take training, preferably in work among children as I have always loved them. I would also be willing to go to another town if necessary. Could you suggest some line of work and also tell me where I can get information concerning same.—RESTLESS.

A. It probably would be more practical for you to continue earning your money in the manner in which you have been trained, and seek your human interest and philanthropic work outside. There are always classes of girls to be taught, camp fire leaders desired, etc. Connections are made for such work through the church, the Y. W. C. A., and the Camp Fire Girls' officials.

You might be able to secure work in your line in some one of the state homes for children, where you could help in other than your routine business work.

To work directly with children would seem to demand that you secure training either in teaching or nursing. The children in the orthopedic homes are taught crafts as well as regular school work. Those in the Home for Dependant Children are sent to public schools when they are of that age.

Dear Minerva: I want to say to "Almost Discouraged" that to stay with a man like that is senseless. A man like that will never improve. He will in all probability grow worse. Better leave now before there are more children to take care of. Leave the baby with your mother until you can find work to support baby and self. Almost any kind of work is better than the life you are living now, and I would surely demand alimony enough to keep the baby. If he prefers to go to jail, let him. This will give him a chance to think about his mistakes. But don't go back to him. He will surely come after you. And if you do, demand that he give you a definite amount of money with which to run the home and with which you can be independent.—ONE WHO KNOWS.

Her Freedom

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

Copyright, 1924, by Public Ledger Company.

– Dorothy Carey hates the idea of marriage because neither her mother's nor her sister Elaine's has been a success. She determines to maintain her freedom and when she is given a chance at editing the fiction of the Woman's Apparel magazine the first thing she does is to look for a place of her own.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Dinner Party.

At last Dorothy was ensconced in her new home. There had been reproaches on the part of her mother, and a tight-lipped disapproval from Elaine. Somehow Dorothy resented this attitude on the part of Elaine more than she did anything else.

"It isn't right for a girl to live alone," Elaine had said almost patronizingly. It was almost as if from the superior height of her married life she looked down upon her younger sister. It was as though Elaine were in possession of a standing and respectability that Dorothy lacked, and while this amused Dorothy in a sense, it irritated her, too.

Elaine was up and around again. The two little girls, Isabel and Eleanor, had been returned to their home, and Steve was still on his good behavior. He had insisted upon a woman to do the cleaning, and Elaine, with that look of dreams still in her eyes, was rather lovely these days.

"What do you mean?" Dorothy had asked somewhat sharply.

"Just that men are apt to misunderstand and impose upon a girl who lives alone in New York," Elaine had returned. And Dorothy had laughed and changed the subject.

She had a never-failing thrill out of her place. No matter how tired she was, the minute she put her key in the door she felt a wave of utter peace sweep over her. Sometimes she went out to eat, but for the most part she preferred to eat at home. And afterward, on the evenings when she did not feel it her duty to go and see her mother, she would lie on the day bed with the orange-shaded lamp at her back and read until she was sleepy. Or perhaps there would be manuscripts that she had brought home with her, and she would go over these and make notes on a small piece of paper to be ready for her discussion with Harvey Collins on the following day.

She had been ensconced in her new apartment for nearly two weeks when Ruth Sibley returned from her honeymoon and rang Dorothy on the telephone one morning.

"I am having a little dinner party on Friday night," she said eagerly, "just you and Mr. Collins. I am dying to show off my talents. Dean says I'm a wonder."

Dorothy accepted eagerly and looked forward to the evening with a great deal of pleasure. As she stood before her mirror on Friday evening she was more than ordinarily satisfied with her appearance, and when she arrived at the home of the new Mrs. Dean Oliver, her face had lost its usual gravity and was almost radiant.

"Why, Dodo, you look quite changed," said Ruth as she led Dorothy into the bedroom. "You don't ordinarily wear such fluffy things, and you have your hair fixed differently."

Dorothy smiled. She felt strangely exhilarated. And when a moment later she entered the living room, and Harvey Collins rose to greet her, she flashed a gay smile at him, and felt the hot color rush up into her cheeks at the look of quick admiration that leaped suddenly into his eyes.

It was a gay dinner party. There were softly flickering candles on the table and Ruth was so ecstatically happy that she injected a spirit of fun into everything. As for Dorothy, she found herself behaving in a rather extraordinary fashion. Her repartee was provocative, almost flippant, and always as she talked, she was conscious of that look in Harvey Collins' eyes.

It had certainly never been there before, but, after all,that was quite natural. Until tonight they had not met socially, and tonight Harvey Collins was not her employer, but a man who happened to be an interesting dinner companion.

As for Harvey, he felt that he was seeing Dorothy as she was, for the first time since he had known her. He had thought of her as cold, but tonight as he looked again and again into her grayish-green eyes, he thought of her as warm, alluring and entirely feminine.
